CHURCHILL IN AIR TALK SUNDAY

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill will address the nation Sunday—his first broadcast since his winter illness—amid a rising clamor on both sides of the Atlantic for clarification of the Allied war aims.

The speech, scheduled for 9 p. m. (4 p. m. EWT), is awaited here as a possible key to the position which Britain may take on the multiple problems expected to come up for discussion at the forthcoming conference in London between U. S. Under-Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and the British foreign office.

Plan 4 Freedoms Vote

CANBERRA, Australia, March 23 (AP)—The Australian Senate today passed a bill authorizing a national referendum to decide whether the Australian constitution should be widened by the addition of 14 new powers, including President Roosevelt's "Four Freedoms."

Reds Seize Nazi Secret Weapons

MOSCOW, March 23 (AP)—A Moscow exhibit of newly-captured German arms includes a self-propelled, electrically-controlled land torpedo used as an anti-tank weapon.

Tass News Agency said the torpedo, captured along with a 10-barrel reactive mortar on an armored carrier, had been held a close secret by the Germans, but had been abandoned during the rapid retreat from the Leningrad sector.

Tass said the torpedo was controlled by a wire a mile and a half long.

Among other exhibits are a 105-mm. gun with range of about 11 miles and a 150-mm. gun with a range of more than 12 miles.

The American raiding force, which included upward of 500 Fortresses and Liberators, bombed the Brunswick district, the aircraft park at Werl, 40 miles east of Essen; Achmer air force station in Oldenburg to the south, and the German bomber base at Handorf, a U. S. Army Air Force announcement said.

The German air force, which avoided battle when 600 or more Fortresses and Liberators blasted Berlin in daylight yesterday, apparently rose to the bait of the bold attack today for the German radio said "violent" air combats were fought with the extraordinary large number of fighters which accompanied the bombers.

NEW GERMAN TACTICS

The U. S. headquarters announcement said Thunderbolts, Mustangs and Lightnings doing escort duty were in "very great strength."

In opposing the Fortresses and Liberators German fighters adopted a new tactic, the first returning Mustang pilots reported, and concentrated their passes on a small part of the attacking formations.

As a result, other Mustang pilots said, "we went almost to Russia without being able to find anyone to fight."

Other tactics of the Germans included adoption of the tight fortress-like formation, but that did not prevent them suffering heavy casualties.

"Thirty or forty German fighters stacked four deep and six across jumped us from out of a cloud—they were in perfect formation," said Sgt. George Waters, Los Angeles, a ball turret gunner on the Fortress Dinah Might.

French Channel Port Of Calais Ablaze

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—Four great columns of black smoke boiled up from the French channel port of Calais today, indicating much of the city was ablaze.

Coastal observers thought the fires probably resulted from air attacks. American Liberators attacked that area Tuesday.

RED CROSS LAUNCHING—Hundreds of volunteer Red Cross workers participate in the launching of the 22,400-ton S. S. Wood Lake at the Alabama Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Corp., where workers have contributed more than $50,000 to the Red Cross War Fund Drive.

HITLER SEEKS NEW PUPPETS IN BALKANS

By ERNEST AGNEW

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—Adolf Hitler was reported tightening his grip on every nation of southeastern Europe today after installing a puppet regime in Hungary.

In an official announcement, the Berlin radio said a new government had been formed in Budapest under a Quisling premier and a German gauleiter.

The fate of Hungary was an example for countries failing to fall in line as Hitler strove to build up defense against the Russians.

A Daily Mail dispatch from Madrid said German airborne troops were seizing Bulgaria's railways and communications systems and had detained the Soviet ambassador and occupied the embassy in Sofia. Bulgaria and Russia have remained at peace, although on opposite sides in the world conflict.

Most informed quarters in London viewed Rumania as too weak to be other than docile, particularly since the advancing Russians are knocking against her Prut river border. London dispatches from Ankara quoted rumors there that Hitler had promised Premier Ion Antonescu immediate return of Transylvania from Hungary.

Reds Smash At Sea Base

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, March 23 (AP)—Russian troops fought today within sight of the Black sea base of Nikolaev and drove into the hills of Bessarabia where the land begins rising gradually to the Carpathian mountains.

The battle for Nikolaev has begun and the Germans appear doomed.

Marshal Konev's mobile troops reached points 25 miles from the Prut river, where the Rumanians and Germans launched their invasion of Russia, and 18 miles from the Bessarabian communications center of Byelsti.

Two Rumanian divisions with German commanders and storm troops offered sharp resistance in the rolling hills, but failed to arrest the tremendous tempo of the Red army. The Russians commanded roads to the west through bare country "not so boggy as the southern Ukraine," military advisers said.

German planes in great numbers sought to destroy bridges and roads behind the Russians, but bridges over the Dniester and southern Bug river were too numerous and the Red army was too strong.

Gen. Malinovsky's army was driving upon Nikolaev from captured Bogiavlensk, five miles to the south.

The Germans inside Nikolaev are in great peril and have long been cut off from escape to the Black sea in any large numbers.

No railway existed between Nikolaev and Odessa before the war and there is no evidence that the Germans have built one. Latest maps show only two highways through the salt ponds and marshes.

With the fall of the fortress town of Pervomaik, the city of Voznesensk, 40 miles down the southern Bug river, appeared doomed. The capture of Pervomaik, announced last night, was the first crumbling of the outer defenses of Odessa, seventh largest Russian city and the only one of size still held by the Germans.

Northwest of Odessa, the Soviets pressed down the Odessa-Lwow railroad, already having neutralized the east-west railway through Slobodzeye.

June War Loan Aim 16 Billion

WASHINGTON, March 23 (INS)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said today that the goal of the Fifth War Loan drive in June will be $16,000,000,000.

This figure is two billion above the last drive, but the secretary said that "we need it for the war."

RUSSIA—Red forces driving from north and south are reported in sight of Nikolaev (1) . . . while to the northwest other Russian troops are moving into the foothills of the Carpathian mountains (2). On the Bug river front, Pervomaik (3) has fallen.

5TH REPULSES NAZI ATTACKS AT CASSINO

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 23 (AP)—Fifth Army forces have doggedly flung back German attacks in Cassino while Allied bombers struck sharply at enemy supply lines in northern Italy. Allied headquarters announced today.

In the southern section of Cassino, New Zealanders still were engaging the enemy at close quarters. Allied artillery knocked out a German tank emplaced in one wrecked building, raising to five the total destroyed in a week.

Westward along the lower slopes of Monastery Hill Allied forces kept up their attacks along a north-south axis. The Germans counterattacked against Hill 193, a key height northwest of the town, but were thrown back, leaving 30 prisoners.

The Germans also lunged forward in two attacks in a new sector—near Monte Castellone, three miles northwest of Cassino—but French troops broke up their formations with artillery fire.

RAF Liberators and Wellingtons lugged 4000-pound blockbusters to Fadaia last night and battered the rail yards there with one of the most devastating attacks of the Italian campaign, the crews reported today.

U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators hit Verona and Bologna on the route south from the Brenner Pass, as well as Rimini, important junction point on the Adriatic, midway between Venice and Ancona.

Nazi aircraft attacked Allied shipping off the Anzio beachhead.

German Butts In But Dassent Look

By GSORGE TUCKER

NAPLES, March 19 (delayed) (AP)—The front lines on the beach at Anzio are pretty close together, so close the men on both sides can talk to each other. But they don't dare lift their heads above ground level. One of our boys wasn't feeling so good and asked an Army doctor to look at his throat.

"I think I've got diphtheria," the boy said.

"No, son," the doctor said, peering into the throat. "You haven't got diphtheria."

A German across the way yelled: "The hell he hasn't."

That's how close the lines are.

British Set Ship Afire Off Norway

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—Beaufighters attacked two small enemy ships off Norway and left one afire, the air ministry announced today, and one Beaufighter is missing.

Japs 80 Miles in India

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH

NEW DELHI, March 23 (AP)—Japanese columns invading India now threaten Imphal, key road center in Manipur, from the south and east, it was disclosed today when Allied headquarters told of an enemy force which has driven more than 80 miles up the lower Manipur river valley from Tiddim in the Chin hills area.

The headquarters statement said the column was 30 miles from Imphal on the west side of Logtak lake south of the city.

This report of a second invasion of India within 24 hours by the Japs ran counter to previous reports of activity in the Tiddim area, where earlier announcements indicated the enemy was confined within the Burma borders.

Yesterday's report said an Allied force had been dispatched to "deal with Japanese outflanking units north of Tiddim," but gave no hint that the enemy had slammed 80 miles into India from the south as well as from the east in the vicinity of Thaugmud on the upper Chindwin river.

The eastern Japanese invasion force was also reported about 30 miles away from Imphal.

A Japanese breakthrough onto the plain around Imphal from their present dispositions is dependent on gathering reinforcements larger than presently observed Japanese forces, southeast Asia command spokesmen said.

The rice paddies of the Imphal plain would be readily adaptable for airstrips, if the Japanese have the planes available to use them.

Japanese pressure appeared to be growing along the whole Burma front, although headquarters here said Allied troops were converging on the enemy invasion columns in India.

Joan on Stand At Chaplin Trial

By CARL GREENBERG

LOS ANGELES, March 23—Joan Barry today will tell—for the first time publicly—the story of her alleged secret love trysts with Charlie Chaplin. This was indicated by United States Attorney Charles H. Carr as the second day of 54-year-old Chaplin's trial on Mann act "White Slavery" charges in Federal J. F. T. O'Connor's Court ended with final selection of a jury of seven women and five men.

A man and a woman were chosen as alternate jurors to participate in the deliberations only if one of the regular 12 becomes ill or otherwise incapable of continuing in the trial, something that may happen because of faulty air conditioning, the judge hinted.

Impanelment of the jury was ordered after more than half of 60 veniremen had been questioned and after the government had used five of its six peremptory challenges and the defense nine of its allowable 10.

"Fiftyish" would be a good average for the jurors—mostly family folks who've lived in Los Angeles and vicinity for one or two decades. Only one is a native daughter. The rest are from the Middle West states. They are:

Mrs. Beatrice B. Allan, Hollywood. Graying mother. Her husband is a construction engineer.

Grant Ritchie, Hollywood. Mustached, retired farmer, widower and father of three adult children.

Mrs. Vera L. Danis, Beverly Hills. She is a real estate man's wife, mother of a boy and girl and block air raid warden.

Miss Pearl A. Adams. Newspaper bindery worker, now unemployed.

Mrs. Lydia W. Hussey. Mother of three and wife of a retired chemist.

Bernard C. Davis, Van Nuys. He is a caretaker for Jack Moss, film producer, and has five children.

Mrs. Edythe Eaton Lewis. Mother of two, Mrs. Lewis is the wife of a wholesale merchandising broker.

Roscoe S. Reeder. Advertising and sales promotion representative for an oil company. He has three children.

Mrs. Hazel M. Gill. Matronly mother of five. Her husband is a steam engineer in a packing house.

Rowan T. Segner, Altadena. Conservative looking, father of a grown daughter. Segner is a banker in Pasadena.

Mrs. Loretta Easley, Hollywood.

Hunt Seaman In Brutal Girl Beating

A Readville merchant seaman today was being hunted by police in connection with the abduction and brutal beating last Tuesday of Bernice C. Gilbertson, 21, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. E. Nordin Gilbertson of Sheldon st., Rosindale.

She was found wandering through the snow in Randolph, her face and head covered with blood. A full description of her attacker was furnished by the girl, along with his first name. She had known him slightly, she was quoted by police as saying.

The girl's father said that injuries to her head and eye, which she suffered during a vicious attack by her assailant, were not serious, and that she had not been criminally attacked.

"It was a terrible experience, but she is lucky to be alive," the clergyman said. Miss Gilbertson was found near collapse in a lonely spot near the Canton-Randolph line after a woman motorist had telephoned police she had seen a girl struggling with a man near the car. Miss Gilbertson told Chief of Police Patrick T. McDonnell of Randolph she was abducted while nearing her home in Roxbury last Tuesday night.

Mattapan Man, Hit By Car, Badly Hurt

Struck by an automobile while crossing the street near his home, David Segal, 53, of Morton st., Mattapan, was taken to City Hospital today in critical condition. Doctors said he had a possible fractured skull, a fractured right leg, and internal injuries.

Sink 3 Jap Ships In Bismarck Sea

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ

Associated Press War Editor

In the Southwest Pacific, the Bismarck sea claimed three more enemy ships. Allied headquarters listed one destroyer and two small cargo ships sunk off New Guinea.

Wewak, main Jap base on New Guinea, was pounded by Allied bombers for the ninth time in 10 days.

Marines who landed in the St. Matthias Islands Monday have completed their cleanup of Emirau and Elomusau islands.

Rabaul, New Britain, now completely cut off from its Tokyo supply lines, rocked under a 133-ton bombing Monday.

Australian ground forces pushed through the New Guinea jungles to a juncture with American forces and sent patrols within seven miles of Bogadjim, defensive outpost for the one-time potent shipping and supply base of Madang.

7 INJURED FLEEING FIRE IN WALTHAM

Seven members of a family trapped today by flames in a duplex house in Floyd st. Waltham, leaped 15 feet from a window into a snowbank. All were taken to Waltham Hospital, suffering from burns or injuries.

Peter Roche, 40, the father, sustained facial burns; his wife, Elizabeth, 40, had burns on the left arm; Emily, 19, abrasions of the left ankle; Rita, 18, burns on arm, face and back, lacerations of right arm; Elizabeth, 16, burns on face and possible brain concussion; Richard, 9, questionable leg fracture; Claudette, 6, burns on left leg.

The family were all asleep on the second floor when a parlor oil heater, downstairs, caught fire.

Flames spread rapidly through the room and into the front hall, cutting off escape by the stairway.

The sleepers were awakened by smoke, but when they attempted to leave by the stairs they ran into a wall of fire and were turned back.

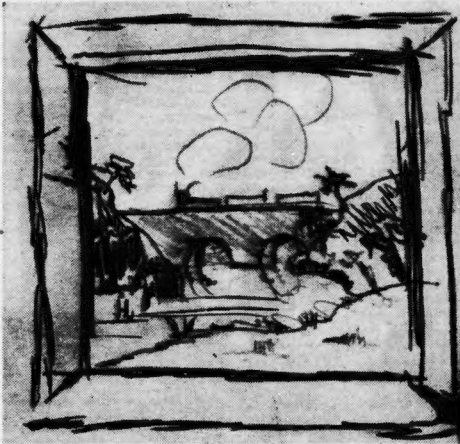

The family of Michael DiNapoli, owner of the house and living in the other half of the duplex, fled to the home of a neighbor.

Gas Racket Net To Snare More

Cracking down on widespread black market gasoline operations in Massachusetts, federal authorities promised new arrests today while two men, already apprehended, faced arraignment before a U. S. commissioner here in connection with theft of coupons worth 250,000 gallons of gasoline from the Hyde Park rationing board.

OPA agents, federal marshals and Boston racket squad inspectors joined in the drive to smash a ring which they claimed acted as a major outlet for illegal gasoline coupons to Boston racketeers.

Facing arraignment today were Charles M. Paratori, 51, of Monadnock st., Dorchester, proprietor of a barber shop on Court st., and Samuel Federman, 42, a druggist, of Hudson, both charged with receiving stolen goods.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Harold Jackson said the warrant against Paratori named his niece, Miss Beverly C. Hclinger, of Massachusetts ave., Back Bay, a former Hyde Park rationing board clerk, as having "transferred and delivered" coupons to her uncle.

Jackson emphasized the girl is not charged with any kind of offense, however, and is simply named in the formal complaint. He said she was co-operating with authorities, and that her statements led to the arrests made.

Federal agents say the coupons were given to Paratori by the girl employee and that he turned them over to black market agents who were paid 10 cents a gallon to distribute them, splitting up $25,000 among themselves.

Auditors have been working on the books of the Hyde Park rationing board for several weeks. They reported that the records had been falsified to cover up the theft of the coupons by ascribing them to business concerns in Hyde Park and Readville.

Wilson, Police Have New Talk On 'Big' Crime

Changing his mood once again, John L. (Limey) Wilson, alleged self-confessed slayer of two women, today consented to talk with Capt. Edward J. Keating of the police headquarters homicide squad at Charles st. jail.

Trucks Begin 3-Day Rounds For Salvage

City trucks today began collections in the first 10 wards of the city in Boston's concentrated three-day salvage campaign for scrap tin and waste paper. Start of the drive was delayed by Monday's storm.

Salvage Director George G. Hyland has set a goal of 1,500,000 pounds of paper, and 330,000 pounds of tin. He emphasized that every kind of waste paper is needed — newspapers, magazines, cardboard, paper bags, wrapping paper, envelopes, circulars and small pieces of paper.

Tomorrow pick-ups will be made in Wards 11 to 17, and the last five wards in the city, 18 to 22, on Saturday.

Dedham's collection will be held next Monday. In Needham paper will be collected next week from Monday through Friday. Hingham is due to hold collection today.

Revised collection arrangements for the pickup of tin cans in Greater Boston, due to the recent snowstorm, were announced today as follows:

Belmont—Today through Saturday.
Boston—Today through Saturday.
Braintree—April 18.
Cambridge—Today.
Chelsea—Today and tomorrow.
Dedham—March 27.
Everett—Tomorrow.
Hull—Tomorrow.
Malden—Today and tomorrow.
Milton—Today and tomorrow.
Needham—March 27-31.
Revere—March 27-31.
Somerville—March 27-31.
Stonham—Tomorrow.
Watertown—March 27-31.

Waste paper drives were also announced in Waltham (south side only) on Sunday, and in Belmont on March 29-31.

First Lady Honors Panama Police Aide

BALBOA, C. Z., March 23 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt presented a legion of merit ribbon to Lieut.-Col. Jose Ramon, assistant chief of the Panama police, during a reception given in her honor last night by Lieut.-Gen. George H. Erett, chief of the Caribbean defense command.

Ramon was titled for services "of inestimable value to United States troops stationed in the Panama Canal Department and in the Republic of Panama."

BENNY KAVARANO, 7, and Lilian Teebagy, 10, both of Hudson st., South End, and pupils at the Quincy School, are doing their bit to see that the Waste Paper Drive is a success. The children know the government needs the paper for food and medical containers and bomb rings, and are hard at work after school gathering and bundling old newspapers and bags for the collectors.

As a result, Capt. Keating was in closed conference with the 28-year-old former Charlestown "looper" for more than an hour, then immediately returned to headquarters, where Capt. Louis DiSessa of Charlestown station was waiting.

In consenting to talk with Capt. Keating, the alleged killer had declared he would have no further conversations with Capt. DiSessa or any other Charlestown officer. As Wilson was being started for the jail after his court appearance Tuesday, he made the remark that eventually he might talk on what was his "biggest job," something that would keep police digging for some time.

LIFER SEEKS TALK

Whether or not he referred to the 1941 slaying of pretty Frances Cochran, Lynn bookkeeper, police were hopeful that they might connect him with that heinous sex crime. Thus far, however, Wilson has denied any implication.

Meanwhile today, police officials had revealed the request of a state prison convict, serving a life term for murder, that he be permitted to talk with Wilson. Police Commr. Thomas F. Sullivan said the convict, whose identity was withheld, had written that he believes Wilson committed the crime for which he was sentenced. The lifer's letter was turned over to Capt. DiSessa.

Another development in the Wilson case came when the Governor's Council voted to investigate the part played in his arrest by a 16-year-old inmate of the Lancaster Industrial School for Girls, who was one of the prisoner's earlier attack victims.

NAMES WILSON

Committed to the school after she had refused to name her attacker several months ago, the girl recently named Wilson when Special Officer Cyril Montgomery questioned her again in seeking a clue to the murders which Wilson afterward admitted.

Police say Wilson has confessed to the murder of Mrs. Catherine McGinley, 85-year-old Charlestown widow, in November, 1942, and to the slaying of Mrs. Belle Hanson, 49-year-old South End woman, a month ago, as well as to being an accessory after the fact to the murder of Mrs. Alice Degnan Sheridan, 49, another Charlestown victim.

Army Steals Show As WAVES Depart

The Army stole the show today at the Navy's farewell party at South Station when three men in khaki invaded the group with a beautiful girl all decked out in three corsages of orchids and gardenias.

Her three former bosses from the First Service Command, Warrant Officer George A. Dionne of Dorchester, Staff Sergt. Robert Wallace of Chelmsford and Staff Sergt. James C. Anderson of Manomet, kissed Eleanor Trotter, 22, of Dix st., Dorchester, goodbye as she left for training with 105 girls in the WAVES at the U. S. Naval Training Center, the Bronx, New York.

Eleanor gave up her job as telephone operator at the Army base for service in the Navy, and to the question, "Which one of you is her beau?" the Army boys admitted sadly:

"That's the whole thing. He's in the Navy."

"LEAP YEAR BABIES" GO

The famous Navy "Leap Year Babies" also left today for training.

Helena Crowley of Caroline ave., Jamaica Plain; and Cecile Kelley of Haverhill, are just 20 years old, minimum age for WAVES enlistment, but on Feb. 29 they celebrated their fifth birthday by being sworn into the Navy.

Navy blue has been the uniform for years in the Caselden family of Bennington st., East Boston, for Daniel Caselden is a police officer at Station 3, Joy st.

Today he proudly saw his third child off into Navy uniform.

His daughter, Rita, 20, formerly a phone operator in East Boston, joined the WAVES as apprentice seaman to serve with her brothers, Dan, 21, machinist mate third class, aboard a destroyer escort, and Bill, seaman second class, in amphibian training.

R. U. GIRL IN GROUP

Marjorie Tilley, 20, of Lyndhurst st., Dorchester, has been a student at Boston University, but her sister, Blanche, 21, specialist technician 3/c in the WAVES at Floyd Bennett Naval Air Base, in a few months.

He then stumbled to a window and opened it slightly before slumping to the floor. He suffered a laceration over his right eye when he fell.

Rules Tardiness No 'Firing' Crime

HARTFORD, Ct., March 23 (AP)—Alarm clocks have been classified as "diabolical inventions and devices" by Compensation Commissioner Cornelius A. Motlan in a finding which declares that sleep beyond the hour recorded on the clock is not sufficient cause for the dismissal of a war worker for tardiness.

The judgment upheld an appeal filed by Theresa Meil who was discharged from a Hartford war plant several weeks ago for tardiness.

"Anyone who says he gets out of bed on time joyously and with much gusto appears to me a perversicator of parts," Meylan stated in declaring that Miss Meil's tardiness had justification.

How Slain Soldiers' Treasures Go to Kin

By A. L. EDSON

KANSAS CITY, March 23 (AP)—Every week or so, a switch engine shoves a couple of boxcars up to a big white 11-story building, once a national mail order house but now the Kansas City quartermaster depot with two floors devoted to the Army's personal effects bureau. The boxcars bring here, for distribution to relatives, the personal effects of soldiers who have died or been killed, captured or listed as missing—the trinkets they treasured, their letters, their money.

Lieut. Col. John R. Murphy who, under Col. C. J. Blake, the depot's commanding officer, has been in charge of the bureau through its two years of existence, says it takes six months to a year—and three entries in the big files—to complete the final record on many soldiers. Their money usually arrives first; next may be billfolds, pictures and letters they had with them when they died; finally comes articles left in their quarters when they went out to their last battle.

KINDLY PERSONAL TOUCH

The bureau has had to feel its way along, for it's without a precedent, so far as Col. Murphy knows. During the last war, personal effects were cleared through Hoboken, N. J., and several other points, and difficulties encountered were almost as great as the variety of articles shipped home. This time it was decided to have one distributing point, centrally located.

Most cases cause little trouble. Property is received, next of kin is found, and the effects are sent on

The prosecution said the mother, Mrs. William Burton, widow of the late millionaire artist, and Capt. Peter Elser, former Harvard football star, would be "identification witnesses" at the murder trial of Mrs. Lonergan's estranged husband, Wayne, 26-year-old Canadian airman.

On the day the State charges that Lonergan attacked his wife, "determined to kill," Elser and Mrs. Burton found the heiress' nude body sprawled on a blood-soaked bed after the officer had telephoned about a dinner engagement.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Jacob Grumet began sketching the death scene yesterday, with introduction of broken candlesticks as the death weapon, police photographs of the blood-stained master bedroom and a medical examiner's testimony of wounds of the body.

Lonergan clenched his teeth as the prosecutor accused him of breaking a heavy brass candle holder on his wife's head, then walking across the room for another holder, to club her again before strangling her with both hands.

When the broken parts of the candlesticks were exhibited to the jury, the tall defendant kept his gaze averted. But he eagerly scanned police photographs of the murder room, showing the bed and body. He listened without show of emotion as Dr. Milton Helsen, medical examiner, described how parts of the body were dissected during the autopsy.

Although the prosecutor sought to establish premeditation in his address to the jury, he made no mention of a motive for the killing.

During the questioning of jurors, however, he had disclosed he would introduce a statement in which Lonergan was quoted as saying he killed his wife in a rage because she told him he never again could see their baby son.

Capt. Peter Elser

Vesuvius Slows Up But Crop Damage Mounts

POMPEI, March 23 (AP)—Mount Vesuvius continued to spew volcanic ashes and cinders over the surrounding area today, and although the rain of ashes was less intense in Pompei further reports indicated crop damage was greater than estimated.

The eruption's climax was expected today by authorities who said Vesuvius' rampages usually last five or six days. The present eruption started Saturday.

Many inhabitants of the area fled afoot, wrapping children in blankets and holding washbasins over their heads as protection against the showers of cinders and hot ashes.

OPA Sees More Butter For Civilians May 1

WASHINGTON, March 23 (INS)—An OPA spokesman disclosed that civilians probably will get more butter beginning May 1 "if present plans work out."

According to the plan he said the OPA hopes that only 12 ration points will be required for a pound of butter instead of 16 as at present.

Entertainer's Black Eye Wins Divorce

A black eye and split lip are no assets in the theatrical world, one of the winsome Stauffer Twins, hotel entertainers, told Judge Frederick J. Dillon in Suffolk Probate Court today.

In private life Mrs. Daphne J. Ryan, she won an uncontested divorce from Robert L. Ryan, a musician, of Long Island, N. Y., for cruel and abusive treatment.

Her mate gave her an unlovely peeper and added a cut lip because he wanted to replace her sister, Doris, in the act. Daphne testified she said she couldn't perform for a week.

She leaned close so Judge Dillon might examine a scar on her lip.

I grantin' the divorce, he gave her the right to resume her maiden name, Daphne Jones.

Clang, Clang

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 23 (AP)—Alexandria's "Old Faithful," a ladder truck that has been clanging to fires for 15 years, finally met its end in action.

The truck was speeding—well, clanging—to a blaze yesterday when an explosion blew its crankcase into the street and scattered engine parts for a block.

ASK RELEASE OF McMATH KIDNAPER

The State Parole Board disclosed today that it has received numerous letters from Cape Cod residents seeking a pardon for Kenneth E. Buck of Harwich, who has served 11 years of a 24 to 25-year term for the 1933 kidnapping of the then 10-year-old Margaret (Peggy) McMath.

Buck, it was learned, has sent letters to more than 100 Harwich and Chatham residents informing them the parole board has "expressed itself as willing to grant me my freedom if a sufficient number of respectable citizens expressed themselves by letter as being in favor."

Edwin F. Eldredge, chairman of the Chatham selectmen, who is sponsoring Buck's appeal, said the convicted kidnaper, now at the Norfolk Prison Colony, is anxious to serve his country in either the armed services or the merchant marine.

Opinion on Cape Cod was reported divided over the issue, some believing the man found guilty of the nationally sensational crime a decade ago should serve his full term. Buck, 38 when convicted, is now 39.

Long a believer in a military type regime for France, Pétain seized upon her collapse as an opportunity to impose his own ideas of a semi-Fascist state under the guidance of one man.

Pétain, whose friends describe him as "anti-nothing, but just pro-French," attempted in the beginning to reduce collaboration with Germany to an absolute minimum as a parallel policy of equal importance with the setting up of his own idea of a French state.

Today, in the face of his inability to stop collaboration, he has become a figure-head behind whose reputation Laval carries out his collaborationist policies.

Pétain accepts the situation first of all because he feels his presence is necessary to the continuation of the new form of the French government, and secondly because he considers himself a symbol of ancient French glory by which there is some hope of keeping occupied France from disintegrating into open civil war.

Pétain has been stripped of his last remaining anti-collaborationist advisers by the continued maneuvers of the German-inspired Laval.

The 86-year-old chief of state is today probably the loneliest man in France, surrounded by collaborationists who have been hand-picked by Laval.

He is generally admitted to be honest, even by Frenchmen opposed to his regime.

The marshal has always relied on the advice of those in whom he had confidence, often taking that of the last person with whom he talked.

So long as he was able to keep advisers who, if not pro-Allied were at least anti-German, the aged marshal was able to exercise a steady influence against giving France away to the Germans.

Today, the story has changed, and the one-time hero of Verdun has lost any power he once might have had to stem the tide of collaboration. Virtually a prisoner of Laval, he rides the current, hoping his reputation will hold France to a semblance of unity.

The first indication for those behind the scenes in Vichy politics that Laval was returning to power in 1942 to strengthen France's ties with Germany was the sudden disappearance of Lt. Carlos Martins, one time under-cover head of the marshal's personal intelligence service.

Even before Laval came to Vichy he forced the arrest and imprisonment of Dr. Martins. Martins' arrest was a decisive blow to Pétain's system of keeping his finger on the French pulse.

There still remain a handful of persons in private life—who must for obvious reasons be nameless—in whom Pétain has confidence but the collaborationists with whom Laval has surrounded Pétain make it almost impossible for them to reach him.

RED CROSS LAG CUT TO $90,000 IN FINAL DASH

With only about $90,000 lacking, instead of the anticipated $500,000, the 1944 Red Cross War Fund seemed certain to reach its 1944 goal of $3,367,000 in Boston today, as volunteers began a final "clean-up drive" following the final report dinner at the Hotel Statler.

Final day figures—which General Chairman Charles F. Rowley said smashed all records in Red Cross history in Boston—showed a total of $3,171,346.28 raised, and a pledge of $105,000 from the Eastern Racing Ass'n.

Chairman Rowley said the balance of $90,633.72 definitely would be raised when unfinished solicitations are completed. Many workers still have a large number of prospects, he added.

Rallying to the support of the vitally-needed wartime program of the Red Cross, Boston raised approximately $450,000 in the last 24 hours of the campaign. During the final eight hours, contributions poured into fund headquarters at the amazing rate of $1902 a minute.

"Boston has come through magnificently in view of its tremendous quota," Rowley declared, "but we must finish the job now as a sacred duty to our fighting sons."

Confident that the city will go over the top before the end of March, which has been officially proclaimed as Red Cross month, Rowley renewed his plea to late contributors today to send their pledges or checks to fund headquarters, 10 Post Office sq.

Link Bluebeard To Ring; 4 Held

MADRID, March 23 (AP)—Paris dispatches said today that an investigation of the deaths of from nine to 30 persons in a villa of a Paris suburb had disclosed a ring organized to prey on wealthy Parisians attempting to flee to Allied territory.

Four men have been arrested, the dispatches said, one of them identified as the head of an underground "travel agency" whose main business was robbing wealthy clients.

The dispatches said also that 14 bodies now had been discovered in the villa and that police records revealed a number of unidentified bodies had been found buried near the villa in 1942 and 1943.

There was no official confirmation of reports in Paris that a doctor described as the owner of the villa has been arrested.

Dorchester Nurse To Wed in West

Wedding of a Dorchester Army nurse, Capt. Mary R. Leontine, 33, to Sergt. John T. Sleeper, 42, of Melrose Highlands, will take place in Los Angeles, Cal., according to an Associated Press dispatch, which reveals the couple have applied for a marriage license.

They did not disclose the date the wedding would take place or where it would be held.

Homes Avoid Sugar Pinch; Ration Stays

WASHINGTON, March 32 (AP)—Housewives will get just about as much sugar this year as last and there is no prospect sugar will go off the ration list by year's end.

Military needs have increased. More sugar has to be diverted to making industrial alcohol for synthetic rubber. But the total sugar supply in 1944 will be about the same as in 1943.

All this adds up to less sugar for the American home front, but housewives are not expected to feel the pinch.

The government is making up the shortage by cutting down on some industrial users, like makers of ice cream.

Shipping is still a prime bottleneck.

Although more sugar might be obtained if more ships were available, WFA is counting on a total of 6,529,098 tons obtained at home and abroad. This is about as much sugar as we handled in 1943.

Lucky Spot

Frank P. Malin, president of the Brookline Awning Co., found a wallet in Brookline ave., near Brookline Village.

In exactly the same spot, a year ago, Andrew Anderson, of Gordon st., Allston, found a wallet.

Both folders, police said, contained identical sums of money. But there the coincidence ended. A sailor owned the purse found a year ago. An Army lieutenant claimed the latest find.

Dad Drops Dead at Throttle, Fireman Son Averts Tragedy

A locomotive fireman, son of the engineer, who brought a Wakefield-bound passenger train to a halt when his father dropped dead at the throttle, was credited today with averting a possibly serious accident.

The train had just pulled out of North Station and suddenly began picking up more than normal speed as it approached a curve near the Charlestown yards. Alarmed, Fireman Wilbert Rogers glanced around to see his father, Hanson Rogers, 60, of Worthington st., Newburyport, slumped over the throttle.

Removing his father from the controls, the fireman applied the brakes and stopped the five-car train loaded with home going commuters.

The engineer, transferred to an inbound train, was taken by ambulance from North Station to Massachusetts General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

SENATE SNARL HOLDS UP VET OMNIBUS BILL

By FRANK REILLY

Boston American Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, March 23—Chances that the veterans' omnibus bill would be passed this week faded today with the Senate adjourned until Friday, still locked in a battle over the annual independent offices appropriation bill.

With passage of the veterans' bill regarded as certain, legislative leaders were hoping today for an early end to the squabble over the appropriations bill so that the omnibus measure can come to a vote in both houses.

Meantime the House has been in the position of waiting for the Senate so that the same bill could be adopted by both branches, and accordingly their action will also be delayed.

The House majority and minority leaders, Cong. John W. McCormack and Joseph W. Martin, Jr., both from Massachusetts, assured an American Legion committee that everything looked favorable for speedy action when the "GI Bill of Rights" reaches the floor.

This committee consisted of former Gov. John Stelle of Illinois; Harry Cormery, former national commander; Robert W. Sisson, national rehabilitation officer and Francis M. Sullivan, national legislative agent.

U. S. AIRLINES IN SUPREMACY STRUGGLE

By JAMES J. STREBIG
Associated Press Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON, March 23—A titanic struggle between American interests for commercial air supremacy over the Atlantic was foreshadowed today by announcement that American Airlines, Inc., is seeking to acquire control of American Export Airlines, Inc.

An agreement under which American Airlines would purchase a dominant interest in Export Airlines for $3,000,000, subject to approval by the Civil Aeronautics Board, was announced jointly last night.

American Export Lines, Inc., a steamship company which established the International Airline subsidiary in 1937, has been ordered by the CAB to comply with a law which forbids control of air carriers by surface carriers.

Export Airlines is the only company to challenge Pan American Airways, Inc., world's largest airline which pioneered 100,000 miles of foreign air routes with the American flag, across the Atlantic.

The war interrupted the struggle after the CAB had granted Export certificates to operate between the United States and Ireland and Portugal. With the war, Export began flying to Ireland and Africa as a contract carrier for the Navy and is operating regularly.

A gift to the Red Cross today is a lift for the armed forces tomorrow. Give now!

Trappists Open Georgia Mission

CONYERS, Ga., March 23 (AP)—Twenty Trappist monks and brothers today began establishing here the fourth foundation of the order in the United States.

White-robed monks and brown-robed brothers, silent according to their custom, came from the monastery of Our Lady of Gethsemane at Trappist, Ky., their first American monastery, established in 1848.

Their ban on conversation was lifted for their trip, but they still spoke little.

Settled in an old barn on a farm they purchased, the Trappists plan to build a house here when wartime restrictions permit.

Members of the order, established at Cîteaux, France, in 1098 by Saints Stephen, Robert and Albert, are vowed to obedience, poverty and chastity. They maintain silence in their monasteries and speak only at church service or when their abbot gives permission for conversation with visitors.

Their establishments are self-supporting. Here they will farm and sell only what they do not use. They expect to accommodate 40 monks within two years and expand later on.

Besides Kentucky and Georgia, the Trappists have monasteries in Iowa and Rhode Island.

Democrats Meet in Maine

LEWISTON, Me., March 23 (AP)—Maine Democrats, experiencing lean times in recent years, assembled here today to map their political strategy in state convention.

Major decision likely at the sessions will be whether or not delegates to the Chicago convention will be instructed to back President Roosevelt.

Addresses by National Committee Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, Vice Chairman Ambrose O'Connell and Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Pennsylvania national committeewoman, will be sandwiched between organizational meetings of the 16 county delegations at city hall tonight.

The business of selecting delegates—who will command 10 votes at the national convention—and adoption of a platform, are scheduled for tomorrow.

U. S.-Finn Rift Believed Sure

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—A break between the United States and Finland appeared today all but inevitable.

The only thing believed capable of preventing final diplomatic rupture would be some official word that peace negotiations between the Finns and Russia have not collapsed.

The Finnish government was notified several days ago that the United States was reconsidering its relations with Finland. A break was not openly threatened at that time but it was clearly implied since it is about the only diplomatic measure left to Washington.

Chaplin

former piano teacher. Claude Mullsaw. He represents a Glendale shirt firm.

ALTERNATES CHOSEN

As alternates these were sworn: C. E. Kells. An accountant and married.

Mrs. Margaret Ingram. Widowed mother of a son and daughter. Chaplin seemed pleased with the selection.

As the jury impanelment capped the climax to a nip-and-tuck saw-saw between prosecution and defense — one of the interested spectators and a potential "bombshell" as a witness was J. Paul Getty, multi-millionaire oil man of New York and Tulsa.

It was at his swank Hotel Pierre in New York, according to reports, that Miss Barry, red-haired and 23, occupied a luxurious suite in October, 1942, when, it is alleged, she kept an immoral rendezvous in Gotham with the white-haired comedian.

Chaplin will testify, it was learned, that he was a guest at the Waldorf in New York at the same time and in fact met the young lady at an exclusive club there.

FACES QUIZZING

Getty was handed a last-minute subpoena by the defense, and it was intimidated by Jerry Giesler, dapper legal-eagle for Chaplin, that he planned to ask the oil man "quite a few questions."

There was a possibility, too, that Thomas Wells "Tim" Durant, sportsman-pal of Chaplin and his co-defendant, with five others on charges of conspiring to "railroad" Miss Barry, Chaplin's ex-protégé, out of California, may be called by the defense.

As challenge after challenge slipped by—the government still holding its sixth and last (and never used) peremptory — the tenseness was relieved by a barber.

He was Timothy J. Reardon, who works up a lather every day in a Sixth and Spring sts. office building.

"Do you know Mr. Carr?" inquired Judge O'Connor, pointing to the capable, carrot-topped prosecutor.

"He's a customer," said Reardon.

"He used to shave me when I was in private practice," volunteered Carr.

"Do you know Mr. Giesler?" asked the judge.

"Very slightly," replied the barber.

WHO ELSE, PLEASE?

He knew Assistant United States Attorney Gerald Desmond "as a customer" too, had known Joseph Scott, Miss Barry's civil attorney, for 25 years, and Jack Irwin, her former attorney.

"Well, do you know Joseph E. P. Dunn?" interrogated Judge O'Connor.

"Yes," said Reardon. "I'll fool him, this time," the judge must have thought, because he next inquired, in sort of an emphatic manner:

"Do you know Hedda Hopper?" (identified as a columnist).

There was a moment of tense expectation. Reardon raised his eyebrows, pondered, then matter-of-factly said "No." Chaplin, for the first time, joined in hearty laughter with the court. Giesler excused the barber.

Giesler won a preliminary round when Judge O'Connor denied a motion by Carr requiring the defense to exercise its peremptory challenges on a basis of two to the government's one until both sides were even and then to have them alternate.

ORDERED FROM COURT

All prospective jurors were ordered from the court during extensive arguments, with Giesler winning his contention that the government should start first on an alternate basis.

First to be excused by the government because she is a movie studio seamstress was Mrs. Dora Garfield. She was replaced by Mrs. Lewis.

Giesler countered by excusing Mrs. Florence E. Banks, credit manager of a soap company which used to sell glycerin (once used to produce tears) to film studios. Mrs. Gill replaced Mrs. Banks.

The second government peremptory caused the ouster of Louis J. Odets, father of Clifford Odets, writer of many proletarian plays. Odets' seat was taken by Davis.

"Are you prejudiced in any way against the film industry or motion picture actors or others working in the industry?" asked Judge O'Connor.

"No, sir, I'm not," responded Davis, who said he is a caretaker.

Davis agreed that he would acquit Chaplin if it was found that although he "assisted" in her trip to New York, Chaplin had "an entirely different intent" than an immoral one.

Of course, Davis agreed, if the prosecution showed Chaplin's intent was immoral—and that's what the government says it was—he would vote to convict the comedian.

ACTRESS EXCUSED

Charles A. Wakefield, Pacific Electric clerk, was the next one routed out by Giesler and he was replaced by E. F. Williams, general manager of a car loading company.

Carr next excused Mrs. Eileen Barrett Fox, an actress who was replaced by a sedate bank clerk named William H. Seward, who is the father of two grown daughters.

Philip N. White, a solid looking citrus rancher from San Bernardino, was next on Giesler's list for excusal. In his stead was called Mrs. Margaret B. Fairbanks, a Hollywood housewife with a 43-year-old son who seemed to have some difficulty in hearing soft spoken Judge O'Connor and had to have some of the questions repeated to her in loud tones by the court reporter.

FEARFUL—Once called "Europe's most beautiful woman," Mrs. Paul Weiller, after recovering a $100,000 ring lost in New York, today expressed fear that the publicity she has received may endanger her Nazi-interned relatives. "The Nazis have been known to gouge money out of relatives who have escaped by torturing prisoners," she said.

Noted Writer Tells Chaplin Jury Facts

By MARGARET BUELL WILDER

(Noted Writer and Author of the Novel, "Since You Went Away")
LOS ANGELES, March 23 (INS)—Who makes up this jury which has been chosen for Charlie Chaplin's trial, and which holds the fate of the comedian in its hands?

It is a cross-section of a typical community—housewives, a retired business man, a former piano teacher, a shirt company representative, a caretaker, a former bindery employee, an ex-farmer and an advertising man. It is John Q. Public—strictly Main street.

Several prospective candidates lasted for the better part of two days before being excused by Defense Counsel Giesler or Prosecutor Carr. Others remained in the box only a few minutes before admitting prejudice or some employment connection which made them ineligible.

IN FOR DURATION

But those 12 who stood the test of time and questioning are committed now, for the duration of the case, and to an observer they seem to have one obvious quality in common—their age.

Whatever their decision in the case of the United States versus Charles Chaplin, it will be a considered one. They don't look like a group of people likely to go haywire.

Three of the women, even after four long hours in court, were still noticeably fresh and well-groomed when it was adjourned after 4 p. m. Mrs. Beatrice B. Allan, the attractive No. 1 juror, who was the first person called into the box at the beginning of the trial, is one of the most prepossessing personalities in the panel. Gray-haired blonde, with a composed, sympathetic face, she wore beige today, with a brown hat cut in leaves like a classic chaplet.

Directly in front of her in the box sits Mrs. Edythe Eaton Lewis, the smart-looking wife of a merchandising broker and the mother of two daughters. Mrs. Lewis today wore a forward-tilted hat on her up-swept hairdo and a brown ensemble.

NOT LIKE THE MOVIES

The third colorful member of the group is one of the alternates, the last-chosen Mrs. Margaret Ingram, a woman with grown children. Mrs. Ingram took the oath looking as if she'd just come from a party in a light blue frock with matching hat and a pink-dotted veil.

Compared to its lady members the men of the jury might be clothed in protective coloring. How they will wear, what personalities will emerge as they sit together in that small space, listening and weighing the evidence against a man their own age, is a matter of conjecture. But from the point of view of providing a dramatic backdrop for the principals of the drama, they don't remind one of the movies.

STYLES YAWNS

Meantime, the defendant—sleepy, clock-watching and sometimes bored—stifled his yawns or did absent-minded five-finger piano exercises on the edge of the sparsely bare table where he sat, though confessing himself tired. However, he still looked fresher at the end of the day than most of the spectators, who were thoroughly in need of combing.

Neat and non-committal among this general coming-apart-at-the-seams, sat Chaplin's butler, Chaney, the proper picture of a gentleman's gentleman, with his hat on his knees.

And as relaxed as Chaney looked stiff, Judge O'Connor at the other end of the room tilted his head back against the red leather of his big chair and placed the tips of his fingers together considering as he talked to the jury.

On the whole, the afternoon session had lost color as compared to the morning one, which had ended with the episode of Chaplin's autographing his "doodle" for Atty. Giesler.

When asked by a reporter what he had been drawing—and with his left hand, too—the actor smilingly handed over a sketch of a train crossing a viaduct.

"But you've forgotten to hang this picture," Mr. Giesler observed, stooping over to attach a wire to the top of the drawing's penciled frame. "We always hang pictures—but never defendants."

Kenny Cure Backed By March of Dimes

By NORINE FOLEY

Special to Boston Evening American
CHICAGO, March 23.—The March of Dimes today backed the public opinion of a grateful nation by putting its resounding stamp of approval on Sister Elizabeth Kenny, and her methods of treating victims of infantile paralysis.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, through its president, Basil O'Connor, cited the remarkable achievements of the Australian nurse, told of assistance in launching her work in this country, and promised wholehearted effort to spread the benefits of the Kenny treatment.

The Foundation's action leaves only the American Medical Ass'n and the editor of its journal, Morris Fishbein, in the position of failing to accord approval, and gave added impetus to the Hearst-sponsored movement to keep Sister Kenny in the United States by assuring her of necessary funds to continue her work.

BENEFITS DEMONSTRATED

The National Foundation has "opened the throttle and is going full steam ahead to make the Kenny method of treating infantile paralysis available everywhere in the land," said O'Connor, adding:

"How well the plan set up in 1941 by the National Foundation for the training of doctors, nurses and physical therapy technicians in the Kenny method worked, was clearly demonstrated during the epidemics of 1943 when 12,401 cases were reported.

"From the epidemic areas of the west, the central states and the east came a flood of requests from physicians for more technicians and more nurses to give this treatment. Here was proof of the endorsement of the method by American medicine!"

Over a half million dollars has been spent by the Foundation to spread the Kenny doctrine. It is their pledge to continue to provide hospitalization and medical care in every community to every infantile paralysis victim who needs it.

HAILS FORWARD STEP

After prolonged observation, O'Connor concludes:

"The Kenny method definitely represents an important step forward in our treatment of this disease. Also, it is no exaggeration to state that in all the history of medicine, few new theories have ever received such general financial support from the people of any nation."

The Kenny method, O'Connor related, was given its first scientific check at the University of Minnesota under a grant made by the National Foundation.

Institutions in California, Illinois, Indiana, Georgia, Pennsylvania and New York have taken up the teaching of the Kenny method. Eight medical colleges and one hospital devoted solely to treating infantile paralysis and to training professional people have taken up the burden of making the special skills and knowledge available to all doctors, nurses and physical therapy technicians.

The Kenny method prescribes the early use of physical therapy, designed to prevent unnecessary deformities and to bring about the maximum function of such nerves and muscles as may have been spared by the disease process.

14 BACK FROM HELL . . By Burris Jenkins, Jr.

IT ALL ends quite suddenly. Nobody in the tank hears the shell coming. There's a sudden blackout for Sergt. Holland, and for his driver one awful moment of intense light and shock, and then the driver is alone in the smoke and heat of the tank with only himself alive in the crew except for the sergeant lying bloody, blind and motionless on the turret platform.

Grimly the driver yanks the levers between his feet, the battered old Gen. Sherman growls, turns and limps for the first and last time—to the rear . . . It took a lot of fighting for one German 88 to stop them . . . That began weeks ago when the old "medium"—brand new then—first plunged off the lighter into four or five feet of water and rumbled up the beachhead . . .

They almost got Sergt. Holland right then at the start . . . He had leaped out fast to strip the water-proofing tape from the motor so the blowers can start working before the motor overheats. He has one foot on the track to climb back inside when one of those "air-bursts" or time shells explodes close and pieces of shrapnel ring against the tank, one fragment flying into his stomach, another into his left foot.

With the beach growing more dangerous and no medics visible in the thinning blur of figures running up the sand between the half-dozen General Shermans lumbering inland toward the town, Harry Holland of Tewksbury, Mass., heaves his 190 pounds into the tank to examine his wounds.

Both wounds are bleeding a lot, but all Harry can manage is to wrap a first-aid bandage over the hole in his stomach and give himself a shot of morphine from the aid kit.

There's nothing he can do about the foot, which leaves prints of blood on the turret platform whenever he moves from one vision slot to the other.

Beach Looked More Hazardous Than Battle

He orders the tank to button up and move on after the column.

About 500 yards farther, Holland stops at an aid station, where a medic cuts off his shoe to treat and bandage his foot. The chunk of shrapnel has gone through above the heel without breaking the bone, but when an officer observes the damage he commands Harry to return to the beach for evacuation.

There are two reasons why Sergt. Holland preferred not to hear the command very distinctly. Partly, he didn't want his part in World War II to begin and end before it got started. Chiefly, he is frank to admit, the increased strafing and bombing on the beach looked more hazardous than the battle mission itself.

"Turn around, boys!" Sergt. Holland yells to his crew. "Let's head for the town."

They overhaul the infantry, where it is pinned down by six enemy armored cars with light Italian machine guns that bounce bullets like popcorn off the tank armor.

The General Sherman opens fire at sight with a burst from its 75 that tears through one armored car to disable another in the line of fire before Holland can order his gunner to switch to the 50-caliber. A burst from this machine gun disabled a third car and brings a white flag fluttering from the others.

No longer interested, Holland and his crew push on toward the city 10 miles away.

Five Nazi Officers Surrender

For no particular reason, they detour the tank onto a small dirt road to the right. Maybe Sergt. Holland has a hunch. Maybe it's just luck when, after a mile or so, he spots a staff car coming hell-bent about 300 yards away, and, through the vision slots—periscope-like mirrors reflectors in slits about 2 inches by 10, two slits in front and one on the side that revolve with the turret—he plainly sees the swastika on the car hood.

The car screams to a stop and tries to turn around as the gunner shouts, "That looks like a Jerry!" and is reaching for the lanyard on the 75 when Holland stops him.

"The 50-caliber is enough," he tells the gunner. "Bring 'em back alive!"

The gunner uncorks a spray of tracer meant to head the car off, but which results in blowing off both the car's front wheels as its driver runs into the bullet stream.

The car plows to a sudden stop and five Nazi officers come jarr with undue celerity, their hands high.

Unable to step out of the tank because of his foot, Sergt. Holland covers his gunner with a sub-machine gun as he approaches the officers. One of them barks excitedly in good English:

"Remember—we're prisoners of war!"

Holland turns the prisoners over to a major and goes on back up the dirt road, unaware at the time that the Free French are later to decorate him with the Croix-de-Guerre for the incident.

It's his wounds which worry Sergt. Holland, for the morphine has now worn off and the pain is mounting.

Rejoining the main road four miles farther on, four pillboxes with 75's are holding up the advance. With a couple of other General Shermans waiting there, they form a battle plan and wade in. One tank acts as decoy, the others furnishing a cross-fire of 75's. The first salvo is a near miss, the second hits one pillbox with a direct hit, and the infantry manages the rest.

But the whole operation takes up an hour, and now it's getting dark and Sergt. Holland is beginning to feel sick.

Still five miles from the town at midnight, the tank takes cover in a cork forest, and Holland shivers in pain and cold on the grating of his platform.

On the fourth day, one mile from the city limits, Sergt. Holland—still without taking time out for medical attention—awaits the main assault on the city. At 6:30 they start the assault, at 7 the city surrenders.

Holland Returns for Tunisian Campaign

By noon there is still no hospital available for Sergt. Holland, so they take him aboard a battleship for treatment.

He returns to his crew in time for the Tunisian campaign and the battle of Faid Pass and Gafsa.

When the 2d Armored breaks up as replacements for the 1st, Harry and his boys are there and ready for the retaking of Kasserine Pass—that historic turning point in the African campaign—where slowly but surely the bullet-pocked tracks of the old General Sherman are grinding toward that one spot on the map where the Nazi shell is to find them.

It's shortly after noon of this day in April when the hills and plains of Kasserine Pass are swept for three days with terrible gunfire into which 200 or so U. S. tanks are moving with orders to take the pass, and it is rounding a small hill that the 88-mm. cannon shell drills into the side of Holland's turret and explodes inside to kill the assistant driver, the gunner and the assistant gunner, instantly, and hurl shrapnel in Harry Holland's head.

It is far back in Algiers next day when Sergt. Holland regains consciousness. He doesn't know what's the matter with him, except that his eyes are both bandaged tight. In an ambulance outside a hospital he asks a British doctor what's the matter with him.

"You'll be all right," is all the doctor can tell him.

Not until he reaches England does Harry learn that he has lost the sight of his right eye. For eight months he lies in a British hospital, the surgeons afraid to operate. At last he is sent to Halloran General Hospital on Staten Island, U. S. A., where the other day Capt. Devoe operates to restore successfully the sight—although not the "vision"—to his right eye.

"Maybe it's just as well," says Sergt. Harry Holland. "I guess I've seen enough to last me a lifetime."

16 Back to Cradle, Mentally And Morally

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, THURS., MARCH 23, 1944

"CONCENTRATION of power is what always precedes the destruction of human liberties." WOODROW WILSON IN A SPEECH IN NEW YORK, SEPT. 9, 1912.

ONE OF THE MOST dangerous propositions ever advanced in this country to concentrate power in the hands of one man and to absorb one of the most beneficent self-organizing activities of the human race is hidden in Senate Bill 1161.

This bill proposes to socialize all the doctors of the United States and make medicine as integral a part of national bureaucratic activities as the unlamented WPA or the NRA.

Fulton Lewis, Jr., of the Hearst King Features Service, the other day exposed this bold attempt to mix medicine and politics. Of the inherent dangers of the tendency to bring every free activity of the people of the country under political—and therefore bureaucratic—control Mr. Lewis says (and his statement is incontrovertible):

"The simple fact is that political control of anything eliminates the standard of merit and substitutes instead the standard of personal friendship and political influence."

"It stifles ambition and smothers initiative—because promotion depends not on ability and accomplishment, but on political considerations."

Political doctors and political medicine would therefore be the entering wedge to taking over entirely all the activities of people precisely as they do in Germany and Russia.

The Wagner-Murray Bill to socialize the medical profession has caused the American Defense Society to begin a campaign to kill this odorous measure in committee.

The society sums up the dangers to our free way of life in this Socialistic measure as follows:

1—It proposes to take $12,000,000,000 by taxation out of the pockets of the American people to give the government not only control of the medical profession and medical schools but, in part, of the insurance business as well.

2—This vast expenditure is to be put in the hands of a single man—Surgeon General of the Public Health Service.

3—Under it any physician can furnish medical service, but subject to such rules and regulations as the Surgeon General may prescribe.

4—Every individual shall be permitted to select his own physician or to change that selection, but subject to such rules and regulations as he may prescribe.

5—The Surgeon General may prescribe the maximum number of individuals for whom any physician may provide service.

6—The Surgeon General may distribute available patients among the available doctors on a pro-rata basis.

7—The Surgeon General will designate persons who are to be regarded as specialists.

8—The bill will regiment all the physicians in the United States, all dentists and all nurses and thus there will be placed in the hands of one man virtually absolute power over the entire profession.

To raise the money to carry on this colossal Socialistic scheme there will be a tax of 6 per cent levied on incomes and 6 per cent confiscated from the earnings of employers.

That, of course, will tend to drive insurance companies out of business, for the next logical step would be mortuary payments by the government.

Thus there go forward scheme after scheme in Washington to oversee, control and regiment 135,000,000 people from "cradle to grave" as President Roosevelt so neatly put it.

Such legislation will surely reduce us to a "cradle" level mentally and morally, and it will also dig the "grave" of American self-reliance and initiative.

A Business Builder

TOMORROW, Leslie F. Barnard, New England manager of the Hearst Advertising Service, will be laid to rest in Beverly.

Relatives, friends, business associates and New England's leading advertising authorities will reverently bow their heads to pay final homage to this man who, for nearly a quarter of a century, conceived, promoted and sold advertising for the Hearst newspapers across these United States.

To the newspaper reading public, Les Barnard was practically unknown but to business men and advertising experts throughout New England, there was always an open door with a hearty welcome.

For Les Barnard sold ideas, precious vitamin of business life and brought profits to their owners.

They were ideas translated into newspaper advertisements that helped businessmen sell their products and their services throughout New England.

And from the time he started selling classified advertising more than a quarter of a century ago until his sudden passing a few days ago, Les Barnard was always known as a business builder.

New England, and especially Boston, will miss him, for here was a man whose intelligence and imagination and integrity for this community, the Rodney E. Boone organization and the Hearst Advertising Service could never be questioned.

Proudly, he would say: "I'm a space salesman for the greatest newspapers ever published. I'm a business builder."

THE AVERAGE housewife works 64 hours a week. So claim those who have thoroughly checked the matter. This brings us to the discussion of "wages for wives." How much salary should a housewife be paid? Well, some professional houseworkers are asking 75 cents an hour. Therefore the housewife who works 64 hours a week might get $48 a week. On the basis of a 40-hour week with double time for overtime, the housewife's salary would be somewhat higher—$66 a week to be exact. So a housewife may console herself with the fact that her job is worth $66 a week, even if she doesn't get it.

PASSING BY: Bill Dickey. Second greatest catcher of all time. The first, of course, was Roger Bresnahan. For some time I have been claiming the catcher was the most important player on a ball club. But not until recently have I found any sport scribes to agree with me. Now note one expert says: "Pitching is 70 per cent of a ball club but a good catcher is 70 per cent of the pitching."

SIDEGLIMTS: When parents give a son a name usually assigned to females does it handicap the lad in later life? It doesn't seem to have handicapped Claire Evgeet of Seattle, Wash., much. He originated the Boeing Flying Fortress... Here is something to keep in mind. Advised Bellamy Brooks: "Have courage to listen to your wife when you should and not listen to her when you should not."

PLEASE NOTE: At Bataan alone the Japs took more than 35,000 United States prisoners. In the entire World War I the number of United States prisoners taken by enemy forces was 2163... Venezuela's royalties on oil are so great it is not necessary to have income taxes or taxes on private property. In the postwar period in the United States much can be done in the field of tax reduction by the combination of intelligent and courageous legislators and a fighting public. For example, the taxes in New York City and many other major cities could be reduced by taxing all gambling. Do not overlook the fact that the New York State budget has been recently balanced largely through the aid of the State tax on mutual betting.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: When women try on skirts, do they ask for a chair to see how they look sitting down in the skirt selected? Seems they really should... "Register something for us, will you, Eddie?" is the burden of a communication signed by 12 men fighting in the mud of Italy. "We have no use for and thoroughly despise those middle-aged blue noses who are sneaking over reform elections while the young men of their communities are away fighting their battles"

HUSBANDS: "At least six women are in love with my husband" is the way a magazine writer begins an article describing her domestic situation. She is just letting her imagination run riot. The only husband in the United States who has more than three women in love with him is Frank Sinatra. The writer aforementioned goes on to tell how despite the scramble for her mate's affection she manages to remain the top girl. It is extremely bad taste for a woman to write an article on how she holds her husband. What must the husband of such a female think when he reads such an article? Not only that, what must his male friends think? Women who really manage their husbands keep quiet about it. Their idea is to have the husband think he is doing the managing.

HORSES: Silver Cord, the white thoroughbred that won races at Agua Caliente, was not foaled white. This noble animal was sent to Arizona for a lung ailment. He was cured, but the Arizona sun bleached his skin white. So our search for the record of a white racehorse continues. A Californian states that at Sacramento a winner was a white thoroughbred named Laundryman. We are checking on it.

BRIEFLY: "As slow as an elephant" is an expression I note used. An elephant is not so slow. He can run much faster than a man... There are 250 men to every woman in Hawaii. Nevertheless, female envy still prevails down there. The women who have only five men ask them to dance at each dance are jealous of those who are asked each time by 25 men.

My Day By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

CARACAS, VENEZUELA, Wednesday—back in the mountains of British Guiana are flat plateaus where the handy rancher can build himself a home and in 20 years, so Maj. Art Williams told me, he can be secure enough financially to send his boys and girls away to school. Men and women must work hard, however, and no weakening could succeed. Spaniards, Scots, Americans from Texas, and various other pioneers are today ranching successfully.

MAJ. WILLIAMS ALSO FLEW us over the old Dutch seat of government, where the diamond shaped fort and old Dutch government house stand, and he pointed out forests of greenheart wood which will not float but must be loaded on barges for transport. At 5 o'clock we landed at the U. S. naval base. Here we went directly to mess with the enlisted men. The boy next to me came from Washington, and I have promised to tell his wife how he is when I get home.

IT WAS WELL AFTER midnight when we got to bed, and we had to take off the following morning with Maj. Williams at 7:30. Back at Atkinson Field, we changed to a bigger plane and left for La Guaira. We were met on arrival by the minister of foreign affairs and Senora Parra Perez and our ambassador and Mrs. Corrigan. I drove with Foreign Minister and Senora Perez to Caracas.

It is a wonderful road, winding up into mountains giving view after view of sea and mountains. After arriving in the city, we went immediately to the Pantheon, and I laid a wreath on Simon Bolivar's tomb. This is a dignified and beautiful building.

HOLLYWOOD, March 23—Every time I write a story about Jimmy Cagney the walls cave in. Somebody in official capacity with Jimmy's company either denies the yarn or writes a three-page letter with additional facts.

So, taking a sporting chance of seeing what happens now, we announce that William Cagney has bought a story to star Jimmy. It is "Only the Valiant." A yarn about the Northwest in 1870. It was written by Charles Marquis Warren, who is now an ensign in the U. S. Navy.

Susanna Foster

When a Hollywood agent wrote Warren and asked him to send extra copies of his book to submit to the movie studios Warren wired back: "What? On an ensign's salary, I can't afford extra copies."

THE CYNICS who thought Susanna Foster was getting a slight "rush" at Universal doing the horror-thriller while the Somerset Maugham stories went to Deanna Durbin can eat their words. "U" realizes they have something good in the Foster girl and, just by way of giving her a chance to be different, they're handing her Ruth McKenney's new comedy, "San Diego, I Love You." Miss McKenney, you remember, authored the book, "My Sister Ellen," which furnished the idea for one of my favorite comedies. Jon Hall gets the male lead in this wacky comedy.

RAN INTO Joan Fontaine, looking pretty as a picture, having dinner with Stanton Griffis, an old friend of her's and Brian Aherne's. It was Stan who first brought Brian to this country for Katherine Cornell's play, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." Joan is here to see her doctor. At the moment, she is on suspension at the Selznick studio because she didn't appear in "Double Furlough."

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN'S $2500 pin wasn't intentionally stolen, after all. It was all an accident—but it should prove to be a lesson to fans who make a habit of grabbing flowers and handkerchiefs from movie stars. This morning Fr. Moran of St. Benedict's Church called Maureen to explain what had happened. One of his parishioners, who is a movie fan, had been standing in line when Maureen came out of a broadcasting station following her appearance on a motion picture relief show. She was wearing a corsage and the little fan reached out and grabbed it for a "souvenir" and then ran. She didn't realize until she was several blocks away that the valuable pin was dangling on the corsage! She took it immediately to her priest, who returned it to Maureen.

He is nearly on the Fred Allen show and is starting another program. So wife and three small children, ing in Beverly Hills, are he can come home this summer. Frank and Alma Morgan celebrate 30 years of married life last week; Deanna Durbin has had so much trouble with her throat her doctor orders a two-week rest; Phyllis Brooks heads East to see her heart, Lieut. HOLLYWOOD, March 23—The performers were in a story telling mood as I strolled about the sets. Joan Arthur and Charles Coburn had just completed a scene for "The Impatient Years," and while Director Irving Cummings was arranging his set-up, Coburn reminisced about his early days in the theater.

Coburn's early days go back to that noted actor, Joseph Jefferson. Coburn was a lad, a backstage assistant and bit player at the big theater in Savannah. When Joseph Jefferson and his troupe came to the Savannah theater, Coburn and other youngsters were cast in bit parts and walk-ons. Coburn did his best to please the great Jefferson.

Jefferson was booked into the theater for a month, and at the end of every week, he would tip the young lads, giving each 50 cents. But he always passed Coburn by.

Finally, the closing night of the show, Jefferson gave each boy 50 cents, and again neglected to tip Coburn. Coburn, feeling slighted and hurt, approached Jefferson and shyly asked: "Have I displeased you, sir?"

"On the contrary," Jefferson answered. "You did splendidly in your small part. Much better than the other lads."

Coburn now gained a little courage. "Not that money means anything, sir," said Coburn, "but every week you gave the other boys 50 cents but never to me. I wondered why?"

"That's very simple," answered Joseph Jefferson. "An actor should never accept charity unless he has to. Your companions aren't actors."

ON THE SET of "Bring on the Girls" Sonny Tufts was starting to tell a group a tall tale. Tufts related the yarn about a man who got to P. T. Barnum and said he had a terrific trick. "I jump off a tremendous tower," he explained, "and land in a bucket of water."

Barnum didn't believe him, but had a tower rigged for a trial jump. "Is that high enough?" he asked the man.

"Oh, no," said the man, "it could be higher."

The tower was made higher. He climbed the long ladder slowly until he reached the top. The bucket was there, the man where he had directed. The man jumped. He landed directly in the bucket, got up and took a bow. "Great," exclaimed Barnum. "Come to my office, we'll discuss the deal, and you can do that every night as part of the show."

"I'm sorry," said the man, "but I don't want the job."

"Why not?" asked Barnum. "I'll give you anything you want."

"It's not that," said the man. "But that was the first time I tried the trick and I didn't like it."

Back to Cradle, Mentally And Morally

"CONCENTRATION of power is what always precedes the destruction of human liberties."—WOODROW WILSON IN A SPEECH IN NEW YORK, SEPT. 9, 1912.

ONE OF THE MOST dangerous propositions ever advanced in this country to concentrate power in the hands of one man and to absorb one of the most beneficent self-evolving activities of the human race is hidden in Senate Bill 1161.

This bill proposes to socialize all the doctors of the United States and make medicine as integral a part of national bureaucratic activities as the unlamented WPA or the NRA.

Fulton Lewis, Jr., of the Hearst King Features Service, the other day exposed this bold attempt to mix medicine and politics. Of the inherent dangers of the tendency to bring every free activity of the people of the country under political—and therefore bureaucratic—control Mr. Lewis says (and his statement is incontrovertible):

"The simple fact is that political control of anything eliminates the standard of merit and substitutes instead the standard of personal friendship and political influence.

"It stifles ambition and smother initiative—because promotion depends not on ability and accomplishment, but on political considerations."

Political doctors and political medicine would therefore be the entering wedge to taking over entirely all the activities of people precisely as they do in Germany and Russia.

The Wagner-Murray Bill to socialize the medical profession has caused the American Defense Society to begin a campaign to kill this odorous measure in committee.

The society sums up the dangers to our free way of life in this Socialistic measure as follows:

1—It proposes to take $12,000,000,000 by taxation out of the pockets of the American people to give the government not only control of the medical profession and medical schools but, in part, of the insurance business as well.

2—This vast expenditure is to be put in the hands of a single man—Surgeon General of the Public Health Service.

3—Under it any physician can furnish medical service, but subject to such rules and regulations as the Surgeon General may prescribe.

4—Every individual shall be permitted to select his own physician or to change that selection, but subject to such rules and regulations as he may prescribe.

5—The Surgeon General may prescribe the maximum number of individuals for whom any physician may provide service.

6—The Surgeon General may distribute available patients among the available doctors on a pro-rata basis.

7—The Surgeon General will designate persons who are to be regarded as specialists.

8—The bill will regiment all the physicians in the United States, all dentists and all nurses and thus there will be placed in the hands of one man virtually absolute power over the entire profession.

To raise the money to carry on this colossal Socialistic scheme there will be a tax of 6 per cent levied on incomes and 6 per cent confiscated from the earnings of employers.

That, of course, will tend to drive insurance companies out of business, for the next logical step would be mortuary payments by the government.

Thus there go forward scheme after scheme in Washington to oversee, control and regiment 135,000,000 people from "cradle to grave," as President Roosevelt so neatly put it.

Such legislation will surely reduce us to a "cradle" level mentally and morally, and it will also dig the "grave" of American self-reliance and initiative.

A Business Builder

TOMORROW, Leslie F. Barnard, New England manager of the Hearst Advertising Service, will be laid to rest in Beverly.

Relatives, friends, business associates and New England's leading advertising authorities will reverently bow their heads to pay final homage to this man who, for nearly a quarter of a century, conceived, promoted and sold advertising for the Hearst newspapers across these United States.

To the newspaper reading public, Les Barnard was practically unknown but to business men and advertising experts throughout New England, there was always an open door with a hearty welcome.

For Les Barnard sold ideas, precious vitamin of business life and brought profits to their owners.

They were ideas translated into newspaper advertisements that helped businessmen sell their products and their services throughout New England.

And from the time he started selling classified advertising more than a quarter of a century ago until his sudden passing a few days ago, Les Barnard was always known as a business builder.

New England, and especially Boston, will miss him, for here was a man whose intelligence and imagination and integrity for this community, the Rodney E. Boone organization and the Hearst Advertising Service could never be questioned.

Proudly, he would say: "I'm a space salesman for the greatest newspapers ever published. I'm a business builder."

THE AVERAGE housewife works 64 hours a week. So claim those who have thoroughly checked the matter. This brings us to the discussion of "wages for wives." How much salary should a housewife be paid? Well, some professional houseworkers are asking 75 cents an hour. Therefore the housewife who works 64 hours a week might get $48 a week. On the basis of a 40-hour week with double time for overtime, the housewife's salary would be somewhat higher—$66 a week to be exact. So a housewife may console herself with the fact that her job is worth $66 a week, even if she doesn't get it.

PASSING BY: Bill Dickey, Second greatest catcher of all time. The first, of course, was Roger Bresnahan. For some time I have been claiming the catcher was the most important player on a ball club. But not until recently have I found any sport scribes to agree with me. Now note one expert says: "Pitching is 70 per cent of a ball club but a good catcher is 70 per cent of the pitching."

SIDEGLIMTS: When parents give a son a name usually assigned to females does it handicap the lad in later life? It doesn't seem to have handicapped Claire "Geddy" of Seattle, Wash., much. He originated the Boeing Flying Fortress. . . Here is something to keep in mind. Advised Bellamy Brooks: "Have courage to listen to your wife when you should and not listen to her when you should not."

PLEASE NOTE: At Bataan alone the Japs took more than 25,000 United States prisoners. In the entire World War I the number of United States prisoners taken by enemy forces was 2163. . . Venezuela's royalties on oil are so great it is not necessary to have income taxes or taxes on private property. In the postwar period in the United States much can be done in the field of tax reduction by the combination of intelligent and courageous legislators and a fighting public. For example, the taxes in New York City and many other major cities could be reduced by taxing all gambling. Do not overlook the fact that the New York State budget has been recently balanced largely through the aid of the State tax on mutual betting.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: When women try on skirts, do

they ask for a chair to see how they look sitting down in the skin selected? Seems they really should. . . "Register something for us, will you, Eddie?" is the burden of a communication signed by 12 men fighting in the mud of Italy. "We have no use for and thoroughly despise those middle-aged deep noses who are sneaking over reform elections while the young men of their communities are away fighting their battles"

HUSBANDS: "At least six women are in love with my husband" is the way a magazine writer begins an article describing her domestic situation. She is just letting her imagination run riot. The only husband in the United States who has more than three women in love with him is Frank Sinatra. The writer aforementioned goes on to tell how despite the scramble for her mate's affection she manages to remain the top girl. It is extremely bad taste for a woman to write an article on how she holds her husband. What must the husband of such a female think when he reads such an article? Not only that, what must his male friends think? Women who really manage their husbands keep quiet about it. Their idea is to have the husband think he is doing the managing.

HORSES: Silver Cord, the white thoroughbred that won races at Agua Caliente, was not foaled white. This noble animal was sent to Arizona for a lung ailment. He was cured, but the Arizona sun bleached his skin white. So our search for the record of a white racehorse continues. A Californian states that at Sacramento a winner was a white thoroughbred named Laundryman. We are checking on it.

BRIEFLY: "As slow as an elephant" is an expression I note used. An elephant is not so slow. He can run much faster than a man. . . There are 250 men to every woman in Hawaii. Nevertheless, female envy still prevails down there. The women who have only five men ask them to dance at each dance are jealous of those who are asked each time by 25 men.

My Day By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

CARACAS, VENEZUELA. Wednesday—back in the mountains of British Guiana are flat plateaus where the handy rancher can build himself a home and in 20 years, so Maj. Art Williams told me, he can be secure enough financially to send his boys and girls away to school. Men and women must work hard, however, and no weakling could succeed. Spaniards, Scots, Americans from Texas, and various other pioneers are today ranching successfully.

MAJ. WILLIAMS ALSO FLEW us over the old Dutch seat of government, where the diamond shaped fort and old Dutch government house stand, and he pointed out forests of greenheart wood which will not float but must be loaded on barges for transport.

At 5 o'clock we landed at the U. S. naval base. Here we went directly to mess with the enlisted men. The boy next to me came from Washington, and I have promised to tell his wife how he is when I get home.

IT WAS WELL AFTER midnight when we got to bed, and we had to take off the following morning with Maj. Williams at 7:30. Back at Atkinson Field, we changed to a bigger plane and left for La Guaira. We were met on arrival by the minister of foreign affairs and Senora Parra Perez and our ambassador and Mrs. Corrigan. I drove with Foreign Minister and Senora Perez to Caracas.

It is a wonderful road, winding up into mountains giving view after view of sea and mountains. After arriving in the city, we went immediately to the Pantheon, and I laid a wreath on Simon Bolivar's tomb. This is a dignified and beautiful building.

HOLLYWOOD, March 23 — Every time I write a story about Jimmy Cagney the walls cave in. Somebody in official capacity with Jimmy's company either denies the yarn or writes a three-page letter with additional facts.

So, taking a sporting chance of seeing what happens now, we announce that William Cagney has bought a story to star Jimmy. It is "Only the Valiant." A yarn about the Northwest in 1870. It was written by Charles Marquis Warren, who is now an ensign in the U. S. Navy.

When a Hollywood agent wrote Warren and asked him to send extra copies of his book to submit to the movie studios Warren wired back: "What? On an ensign's salary, I can't afford extra copies."

THE CYNICS who thought Susanna Foster was getting a slight "brush" at Universal doing the horror-thriller while the Somerset Maugham stories went to Deanna Durbin can eat their words. "U" realizes they have something good in the Foster girl and, just by way of giving her a chance to be different, they're handing her Ruth McKenney's new comedy, "San Diego, I Love You." Miss McKenney, you remember, authored the book, "My Sister Eileen," which furnished the idea for one of my favorite comedies. Jon Hall gets the male lead in this wacky comedy.

RAN INTO Joan Fontaine, looking pretty as a picture, having dinner with Stanton Griffis, an old friend of her's and Brian Aherne's. It was Stan who first brought Brian to this country for Katherine Cornell's play, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." Joan is here to see her doctor. At the moment, she is on suspension at the Seznick studio because she didn't appear in "Double Furlough."

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN'S $2500 pin wasn't intentionally stolen, after all. It was all an accident—but it should prove to be a lesson to fans who make a habit of grabbing flowers and handkerchiefs from movie stars. This morning Fr. Moran of St. Benedict's Church called Maureen to explain what had happened. One of his parishioners, who is a movie fan, had been standing in line when Maureen came out of a broadcasting station following her appearance on a motion picture relief show. She was wearing a corsage and the little fan reached out and grabbed it for a "souvenir" and then ran. She didn't realize until she was several blocks away that the valuable pin was dangling on the corsage! She took it immediately to her priest, who returned it to Maureen.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Faye Emerson denies the rumors that she may be the new Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt. "Colorado Roosevelt has been overseas six months," she said. "And who I know him there is no romance. Claire Trevor returns May 1 from Kansas City, where she has been with her lieutenant-husband, make a movie." "He said she play the wife in Hunt Stromberg's 'Guest in the House'." Director, Fred Wilcox, of "Lassie Come Home" fame, goes into the Army in three weeks; Robert Walker, who is carrying the torch for Jennifer Jones, staging it at the night spots; Alan Reed takes a physical next week. He is now on the Fred Allen show and starting another program. His wife and three small children, living in Beverly Hills, are hoping he can come home this summer. Frank and Alma Morgan celebrate 30 years of married life last week; Deanna Durbin has had so much trouble with her throat her doctor orders a two-week rest; Phyllis Brooks heads East to see her heart, Lieut. Truman Davis; Myrna Loy arrives on the Super-Chief today, her first appearance in Hollywood in several years.

How Bing's pal, Bob Hope, is going to top this extraordinary performance by The Groaner is something Hollywood is speculating about.

CHESTER MORRIS had a group of us on Pat O'Brien's set, "Fleabuck" (that's the name of Pat's picture), in hysterics as he told how Bob had gimmicked up a gag which Chester had invented. . . "I had worked out a rabbit gag," Chester said. "I went over big at a party, and Bob fell in love with it. . . The routine was simple. . . After pulling a little hocus-pocus, I would say something like this: 'Now, boys, no first-class magician ever omits a first-class rabbit trick ready for you, but unfortunately I sent my suit out to be pressed and this is what hap-he couldn't understand it. . . Then he saw us snickering—guffawing. I guess, would be the word. . . Finally we told him that he had made the gag useless by substituting the word 'cleaned' for the correct word, 'pressed!'

HOLLYWOOD, March 23—The performers were in a story telling mood as I strolled about the sets. Jean Arthur and Charles Coburn had just completed a scene for "The Impatient Years," and while Director Irving Cummings was arranging his set-up, Coburn reminisced about his early days in the theater.

Jean Arthur

Coburn's early days go back to that noted actor, Joseph Jefferson. Coburn was a lad, a backstage assistant and bit player at the big theater in Savannah. When Joseph Jefferson and his troupe came to the Savannah theater, Coburn and other youngsters were cast 'n bit parts and walk-ons. Coburn did his best to please the great Jefferson.

Jefferson was booked into the theater for a month and at the end of every week, he would tip the young lads, giving each 50 cents. But he always passed Coburn by.

Finally, the closing night of the show, Jefferson gave each boy 50 cents, and again neglected to tip Coburn. Coburn, feeling slighted and hurt, approached Jefferson and shyly asked: "Have I displeased you, sir?"

"On the contrary," Jefferson answered. "You did splendidly in your small part. Much better than the other lads."

Coburn now gained a little courage. "Not that money means anything, sir," said Coburn, "but every week you gave the other boys 50 cents but never to me. I wondered why?"

"That's very simple," answered Joseph Jefferson. "An actor should never accept charity unless he has to. Your companions aren't actors."

ON THE SET of "Bring on the Girls" Sonny Tufts was starting to tell a story a tall tale. Tufts related the yarn about a man who got to P. T. Barnum and said he had a terrific trick. "I jump off a tremendous tower," he explained, "and land in a bucket of water."

Barnum didn't believe him, but had a tower rigged for a trial jump. "Is that high enough?" he asked the man.

"Oh, no," said the man, "it could be higher."

The tower was made higher. He climbed the long ladder slowly until he reached the top. The bucket had been placed where he had directed. The man jumped. He landed directly in the bucket, got up and took a bow.

"Great," exclaimed Barnum. "Come to my office, we'll discuss the deal, and you can do that every night as part of the show."

"I'm sorry," said the man, "but I don't want the job."

"Why not?" asked Barnum. "I'll give you anything you want."

"It's not that," said the man. "But that was the first time I tried the trick and I didn't like it."

"Do you mind if I take the last piece?"

By MARTHA LEE

THE GRAPEFRUIT season is getting into full swing now with shipments from Florida and Texas arriving in northern cities daily.

Like other citrus fruits, grapefruit is an excellent source of vitamin C and it contributes valuable amounts of other vitamins, too. You will want to serve it often in the next two months as a breakfast fruit, in salads, and as appetizer or dessert at dinner.

Broiled grapefruit a la Sherry in all its warm, melting goodness is a revelation to those who have always thought of grapefruit as a breakfast time standby. Broiling with brown sugar, butter and a small measure of sherry wine transforms grapefruit into a delightful dessert service or a sophisticated appetizer course. The secret of this new taste appeal is the smooth blending of the sherry wine with the tartness of the fruit.

BROILED GRAPEFRUIT A LA SHERRY

3 grapefruit
6 tbsp. sherry wine
3 tbsp. light brown sugar
3 tsp. butter or margarine

Halve grapefruit. Cut around core with scissors and remove. Loosen each section by cutting around it with a sharp knife. Pour 1 tablespoon sherry on each half and let stand 1/2 hour. Sprinkle halves with brown sugar and dot with butter. Place under the broiler for 10 minutes or until warmed through and lightly browned around the edges. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Prolonged heating tends to develop an unpleasant bitterness so care must be taken to avoid overcooking the fruit. Slip the grapefruit halves under the broiler flame just long enough to toast them lightly, until the butter and sugar melt and the sherry flavor is at its best.

Fruit soup has been a European favorite for years, but it took Florida folks to apply the idea to their native grapefruit. Now grapefruit sections become the garnish on ready bought soups such as black bean and tomato, while grapefruit juice is the basis for a new consommé which may be had hot or cold.

Broiled Grapefruit a la Sherry

Try the garnish idea, and try these two recipes, too:

GRAPEFRUIT CONSOMME

2 1/2 lbs. knuckle of veal and marrow bone
2 cups water
2 1/2 cups grapefruit juice
1 tsp. salt 5 peppercorns
2 sprigs parsley 1 whole clove
1 bay leaf 1 sprig thyme
1 sprig marjoram
1/4 cup sliced carrot
2 tbsp. chopped onion
1/4 cup sliced celery

Wipe meat and bone with cloth; remove half the meat from bone and cut in 1-inch cubes. Remove marrow from bones and melt over medium heat in soup kettle. Add cubed meat and brown of all sides. Add bones, remaining meat, water and grapefruit juice. Add remaining ingredients, bring to boiling point, skim, reduce heat to low and simmer very slowly for three hours, with lid of soup kettle tilted slightly. Strain through sieve lined with cheesecloth, and cool, uncovered. Chill in refrigerator, and when fat is solid on the top, remove as much as possible with skimmer. (Remaining pieces of fat may be removed with soft paper.) Heat, add more salt if necessary, pour in consommé cups or soup plates and serve hot. Garnish with grapefruit sections. Makes 1 quart.

Forget This Romance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—Three years ago I lost my only sister. She had been like a mother to me, as our mother died when I was quite young. When I married we established our home near my sister, and we all saw a great deal of each other. But it wasn't until after her death that I found I loved her husband more than I did my own.

I know he loves me too, although he has remarried, but this marriage was only a convenience, as he needed a housekeeper. Recently he has not been so attentive and his visits are farther apart. His health seems to be failing. Do you think his lack of interest is due to failing health, or do you think he's worrying over our inability to be together?

If I left my husband, I'm sure this marriage of convenience would be broken up, but my religion prevents my remarriage. Do you think we could find happiness if we broke up our homes so we could spend more time together, even though we couldn't marry each other?

M. C.
Sometimes the conventions of religion are excellent in saving us from doing unwise things. This man, either from illness or because he realizes a continuation of his interest in you is impractical, is tapering off in his attentions. Under these circumstances, why leave your husband and break up your home, when it would be more than likely your freedom might be only an embarrassment to your brother-in-law?

Softening Lines Now

By BETTINA BEDWELL

I HAVE mentioned before this how careful girls with far-flung hips and other excess flesh have to be with these new super-narrow styles, but don't think for a minute that such fashions are all sweetness and light for the thin, either.

They are, in fact, just as dangerous for her, if not more so. The thin girl is always in danger of dressing to look like such undesirable things as beanpoles, pencils, etc. She needs a bit of softness and width to her clothes like a crocus needs the first spring sun. And, on the other hand, she is forever in fear of being swamped by too much fullness and width so she looks thinner and more meager than nature meant her to look.

This year, when clothes are very slim, the thin girl has to watch out so she gets softness somehow. With a suit, she can do it by a soft blouse, a dressmaker jacket, a hat, and such details. I think the very thin should wear fitted jackets, but with soft trim around the top.

that to give us a substitute for diminishing facial youth and bloom... and retard the process of aging skin.

SCIENTIFIC CREAM

Of course beauty of face... to have and to keep... takes time and care. But, isn't it something worth spending a little time on? There is a modern formula... designed to combat the ravages of years in our facial skin... a scientific preparation to achieve beauty for your complexion by retarding the effects of mounting years.

Its active ingredient... biocine... has been measured into this cream very carefully... and is the physiological equivalent of a female estrogenic substance... abundantly present in young adults... but tending slowly, and then finally, to disappear with the aging of the individual.

There are so many women in this world who have learned to grow old gracefully... you and I know them... but not one of them wants her age to show in her facial skin. And so they do the next best thing... they resort to a remarkable cosmetic preparation to supplement the resiliency of their facial tissue with a rebuilding, firming process that brings back the soft, luminous youth of their complexion.

FOR WOMEN OVER 30

This cream is a beauty treatment to be used at night before retiring. It is also a treatment for your neck and hands as well as for your face... to thwart nature in wrinkling and aging those focal anatomical parts.

All you use is one-half teaspoon of this remarkable cream... lightly but firmly massaged into the skin... and LEFT ON ALL NIGHT. It is to be used regularly... and you'll find sufficient treatments for 30 applications.

It is not a product for young girls... whose complexion skin should be firm and youthful. It is a beauty cream offered for women over 30... protective against aging and corrective for those with skins which tell their age.

For the name of this ageless skin cream, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, except the week-end, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wearing Corsage

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,
There has been a discussion among my friends as to the proper way to wear a corsage. We've noticed that many people wear a corsage with the bow at the top, the flowers hanging down. Is this the proper way?
A. P.
No. Flowers should be worn with the blossoms up... the way they grow.

Will Farm Again

THE MUSICAL COMEDY hit tune "Farming" is once again the theme song of a group of socialite neighbors in Plymouth who ran a highly successful community farm project last summer and have plans well under way for a repetition of the venture.

The fellow farmers are the Coe, Greenwood, Fry, Withington, Whipple and Paine families whose winter addresses are Chestnut Hill and Brookline. Every time they all sit down to a delicious dinner of the fruits and vegetables they grew and canned and the meats they processed in the deep freezer they agree it's worth the hard work and have no question about tackling the job again.

They went into food production in a big way, turning most of the Whipple acres into gardens, the children's play houses into chicken coops and stocking the estates with lambs and pigs. All the youngsters were allotted specific chores such as feeding the livestock, weeding, pitching hay and catching the trout and deep sea fish that was processed for winter use.

Mrs. Henry S. Middendorf is the guiding spirit behind this victory venture. Her own five youngsters are eager workers and the family includes five more prospective farmers since her marriage in January to Mr. Middendorf, father of three sons and a daughter by a former marriage. Mrs. Middendorf is the former Mrs. Francis Ward Paine.

MRS. ROGER S. WARNER of Mt. Vernon st. is looking forward to a happy family occasion next month when her son, Sturgis, comes up from Washington to marry pretty Hilda Sizer in her home town of Bethany, Ct. The wedding will be the 25th of April in a picturesque little country church with a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Maj. and Mrs. Theodore Sizer. Sturgis graduated from Harvard in '37, from Harvard Law in '40, and is working in the War Department. His sister, Rachel, is a former president of the Junior League, and now up to her ears in volunteer hospital work.

THERE'S a race on between the Easter Bunny and old Sir Stork as far as the Alfred Meyers are concerned. She is the former Dorothy Fry and expects to move back to her mother's home when Alfred goes off on Navy duty.

It's the Long, Slow Baking that Makes 'Em Extra Good

B & M Brick-Oven Baked Beans (unlike ordinary canned beans) are baked in the real, time-honored New England way: Baked and baked and baked, slowly, all day long, 'till each single bean is a treat of good, old-fashioned flavor... mealy and tender and golden brown.

So... even though we are again baking these hearty and better-tasting baked beans in our Down East ovens... they cannot be rushed to your Grocer or you.

Keep that in mind. And, whenever your Grocer is temporarily out of these New England favorites, understand that his supply is limited... and don't blame him. Burnham & Morrill Company, Portland 2, Maine.

It's Got to Be Good we've been eating it since 1912

NEW ENGLAND'S Leading BRAND

GORCEY STARS AT TRANS-LUX

By HARRIS MORGAN
"Million Dollar Kid," now showing on the Trans-Lux screen, is one of the best in the East Side Kids' series thanks to a slick performance by Leo Gorcey.

Gorcey and his gang, including Huntz Hall, Billy Benedict and Gabriel Dell, rescue millionaire Herbert Hayes when the latter's car breaks down in the slub district and he is being robbed and slugged. In appreciation, the lads are invited to the rich man's home, admire and are given the use of a handsomely equipped gymnasium neglected by Hayes' son.

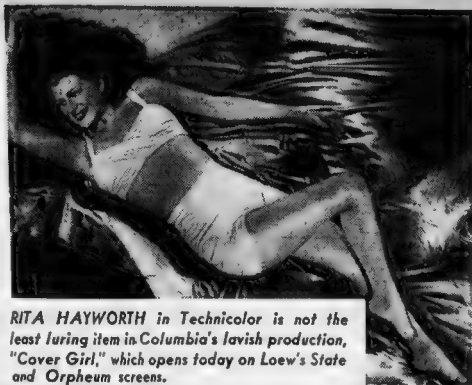

The Kids, resolved to rout the ruffians from their neighborhood, discover that their wealthy patron's son is a member of the gang. They determine to reform him, but it is all in vain until the socialite-gangster finds himself on the receiving end of "Mugs" Gorcey's authoritative left. This and the news that his twin brother flier has been killed in action re-route the bad, rich boy back on to the right street.

Wallace W. Fox does an excellent job of direction, having had a good script from Frank Y. Young to begin with. Sam Katzman and Jack Dietz have given the Monogram picture a first-rate production. Marcel A. Le Picard's lensing is in the same brackets, and altogether things are looking up for those wrong-side-of-the-track boys, the East Side Kids.

Soloists With Symphony

Soloists appearing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra during its 64th season, beginning Oct. 6, will include violinists Jascha Heifetz, Zino Francescatti and Ruth Fosselt, pianists Vladimir Horowitz, Robert Casadesu and Jesus Maria Sanroma and the two-piano team, Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff. The forthcoming season will mark Serge Koussevitzky's 21st successive year as the orchestra's conductor.

Another important announce-

RITA HAYWORTH in Technicolor is not the least luring item in Columbia's lavish production, "Cover Girl," which opens today on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

ment is the change in the shorter afternoon series of six concerts, which until now have been given on Tuesday afternoons. These will be given instead on six Sunday afternoons in Symphony Hall, at 3:30. The change in the day has been made in response to an evident demand under present conditions.

Renewals are being made and subscriptions taken at the present government tax rate of ten per cent until April 1, when the 20 per cent tax ruling will go into effect.

Sharkey Hits Wave of Popularity With Fans

By JACK CONWAY

JACK SHARKEY has become a sports idol in the United States and Canada since he returned from his three-month tour of Italy and Africa. It is easy to find the answer for this feeling on the part of the public. Sharkey took the same risks as servicemen back of the battle areas overseas and helped give entertainment to our fighting forces.

Sharkey had to wait until well after his ring career ended before he was accepted by the fans. I think Sharkey feels happy over the entire situation. I know he is particularly glad he was the first heavy weight boxer of prominence to tour Africa and Italy.

"I would not Jack Sharkey give up my experience for anything," said Sharkey. Since coming home, I do not like to hear people complain about living conditions. I know of the fine work being done by our boys overseas, and they certainly are not taking time out to complain. Their job is to win the war, and they are giving all of their efforts to that task."

I mentioned to Sharkey I understood he had been enthusiastically received everywhere he had made appearances.

"A few nights after I arrived back in the United States," said Sharkey, "I went to the New York Garden to attend a boxing show. I took a seat well back, and when introduced from the ring I received a grand reception. I didn't hear a single boo in the big Garden. I know what it is to be booed as I got my share of them when boxing. I used to say then that the people who paid $25 for ringside seats had a right to boo as much as they wished."

"In Boston, in Canada and at the various New England clubs where I have appeared as a referee, I have been pretty busy refereeing boxing and wrestling shows since I returned home. I just signed a contract with Paul Bowser to referee one of his bouts at his mat show at the Garden next Wednesday night."

Meets Sergt. Sullivan

WHILE IN this office Sharkey renewed his acquaintance with Sergt. Arthur Sullivan, former member of the sports department of this newspaper, who has returned home on furlough after 51 missions over Africa and Italy in a bomber. Sergt. Sullivan is officially credited with one Nazi plane, while his squadron took part in some of the biggest of the bombing operations in Africa and Italy.

It was only two years this coming May that Sergt. Sullivan joined the Army. He selected the air corps, and was among the first to go to Africa after training in this country. One gets an idea of the speed of modern warfare when one thinks of all that Sergt. Sullivan has accomplished in his less than two years in the Army.

"I met Arthur while he was on the way home after he had completed his 51 bombing missions," said Sharkey. "We were in the same plane together for part of the trip. I admit I was scared when the controls of our plane froze and we plunged toward the earth. Luckily, the pilot was able to pull the plane out of its dive. I prayed faster than I ever did in my life as we started our dive. I know Arthur was scared too as was the General who was in the plane with us."

Top Service Boxers

SHARKEY refereed the final bouts of the Allied tournament in Africa.

"It rained on the night of the finals," said Sharkey, "but we still went through with the show that was enthusiastically received. There was so much mud at the outdoor arena that it was necessary to carry the boxers into the ring. I have seen boxers carried out of the ring, but this was the first time I ever saw them carried into the ring."

"There are many fine boxers among the service groups. After the war, some of these boys will become champions. Boxing is by far the most popular sport with servicemen."

Sharkey, Fred Corcoran and "Lefty" Gomez used to put on a show that lasted two hours and a half.

"We gave our audiences the pictures of 22 fights with sound effects, the pictures of the 1943 World Series games, talks on baseball by Gomez, talks on boxing by myself, introductions by Corcoran and question periods."

"These question periods were very popular. The most common question asked me was about Louis and Conn. I told the servicemen that while I picked Conn to win the last bout, and while I believed he would have done so if he had not elected to punch it out with the champion, that in a return match I would string along with Louis."

Women Keglers Give Ambulance Plane

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—The Women's International at Bowling Congress announced today that it will present an ambulance plane to the United States Army Air Forces at LaGuardia Field, New York City, April 8.

The $80,000 ship, purchased with voluntary contributions from the nation's bowlers, will be named the "Miss W. I. B. C. II."

Schacht to Air Yanks, Giants Game

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP)—Al Schacht, baseball's clown prince, will give up his fun-making this season. He has been signed to handle the play-by-play radio broadcasts of all New York Yankee and Giant home games.

Shotgun Shells Start Planes

NEW HAVEN, Ct., March 23 —There's a new use for the shotgun shell. It has been substituted for storage batteries to start airplane motors during testing.

This believe-it-or-not use of a variation of the shotgun shell to "shoot" airplane engines into starting was revealed today by Thomas I. S. Boak, works manager of the Winchester Repeating Arms Co.

The airplane starter cartridge is longer, but similar in appearance to a standard shotgun shell. In starting an airplane engine with a shotgun starter, electrical current ignites the charge of black powder in the shell and releases powerful gases which set the starting mechanism in operation.

Tigers Bow to Sox in Baseball Preview

Maybe it isn't a true forecast of what war-riddled baseball will be like in 1944—but the Detroit Tiger regulars made nine errors in booting away their first intrasquad game yesterday to the Yannisians, 8-3.

Alleviating Skipper Steve O'Neill's worries to some extent, however, was the discovery of a bit of unexpected pitching talent as 24-year-old Wandel Mosser, a southpaw from Point Pleasant, Va., yielded a lone hit, fanned six and allowed no runs in three innings.

Elsewhere on the pitching front, it appears the St. Louis Browns might be going after some kind of a record. Manager Luke Sewell has seven (count 'em) left-handers on his list, but the only old-timer is Al Hollingsworth who won six and lost 13 last year.

And from Cincinnati comes the news that the reason Ray Starr doesn't want to pitch for the Reds is that they won't let him hurl every other day to keep his rubber arm in trim. Last year he was on the hill 217 innings in winning 11 and losing 10. There's a rumor the Reds might try to swap Ray to the Chicago Cubs for Lou Novikoff, who would come in handy in the Cincinnati garden.

Here's the lowdown on the highlights:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Washington College Park, Mo.) Skipper Ossie Bluege has slated Roberto Ortiz, five-foot-three 200-pound Cuban, for right field, over veteran Jake Powell and Gene Moore. Ortiz hit .304 for Montreal in '43.

St. Louis (Cape Girardeau, Mo.) Sam Zolack, 21, and one of the seven southpaw pitchers, is getting plenty of attention. He won 20 and lost 10 at Elmira last year.

Chicago (French Lick, Ind.) Manager Jimmy Dykes says "we should finish in first division." (fourth last year). Relief Pitcher Joe Haynes only holdout, and V. P. Harry Grabner sees no difficulty coming to terms.

Cleveland (Lafayette, Ind.) Mel Harder and Oris Yett, long-missing vets, took part in first drill, braving chill winds for intrasquad game. Another game booked today, with Lou Boudreau calling on six fingers.

Philadelphia (Frederick, Md.) Luke Hamlin (won 21, lost 8 for Toronto last year) arrived with "soft potato pitch"—a new change of pace—and said he was ready to sign. Connie Mack offered him $5500.

NEW YORK (Atlantic City, N. J.) Catcher Joe Glenn leaves today for Navy. Outfielder Roy Weatherly is coming in Tuesday for an undetermined stay. He's passed his induction test.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Chicago (French Lick) Mgr. Jimmy Wilson says he's definitely set on Harry (Peanuts) Lowery for third base when he arrives next week. Rookie "Mickey" Kreitner to do plenty of catching with Mickey Livingston, gone to war and Clyde McCullough in hospital with "strep" throat.

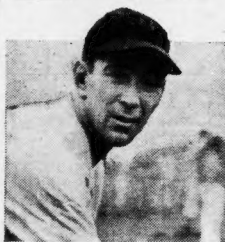

St. Louis (Cairo, Ill.) Big Mort Cooper expected to give Billy Southworth a chance to make him salary-happy in day or so. Meanwhile Billy is going "swing shift" by grooming players for use in several different jobs.

Pittsburgh (Muncie, Ind.) Had first outdoor work in week yesterday. Added May 22 game at Samson, N. Y. Naval Station, and May 23 game with Albany's Eastern League club to exhibition slate.

Brooklyn (Bear Mountain, N. Y.) Southpaw Fred Ostermueller (won 0, lost 2 for Browns in '43) arrives, expected to sign today.

New York (Lakewood, N. J.) Ace T. Adams, who won 11 and lost seven last year, and one of few serious holdouts, wired he'd be on hand Friday—but he hasn't accepted terms yet.

Philadelphia (Wilmington, Del.) The Jays are still blue, with outfielders Coaker Triplett and Ron Northey, and infielders Jim Wasdell and Charley Letchias still turning down all contracts.

Stanley Cup 2d Round On

Now that the underdogs have jumped the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs by winning the opening games, plenty of action looms for the rest of the "best of seven" semi-final sets, according to the Associated Press.

Chicago's Black Hawks defeated Detroit's favored Red Wings Tuesday night, 2 to 1, the first time in 19 games the Windy City crew has triumphed in the Detroit rink. The lean streak stretched back to March 15, 1940.

At Montreal, where the Canadiens had gone 25 games without defeat, they were cooled off 3 to 1 by Toronto's Maple Leafs, with Goalie Paul Bibeault, a former Canadian, furnishing the difference for the winners.

Bibeault halted 42 shots in the opener, a pretty fair night's work for any goalie.

Tonight the four teams do it all over again, with Chicago at Detroit where a crowd of 12,000 is expected, and Toronto at Montreal.

Szabo Wins Over Robert at Arena

Sander Szabo earned the right to meet the Golden Terror for the duration mat title by taking two out of three falls from Vvon Robert in the wrestling windup at the Arena last night before some 5000 fans. Szabo and the Golden Terror will clash at the Garden on next Wednesday night.

John Katan pinned Art LeGrand in the semi-final in 15:49. Dr. John "Drop-Kick" Murphy and Les Ryan went 20 minutes to a draw while Rebel Bob Russell opened the card by taking Farmer Mack in 13:36.

Pitcher Melton In Class 1-A

GASTONIA, N. C., March 23 (AP)—Reuben Franklin Melton, pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers, said today he had been classified 1-A by his draft board and that 1944 contract negotiations with Branch Rickey had been suspended pending the outcome. The 27-year-old fireballer, troubled by a sore arm considerably in the past, commented, "I'm in the best shape I've ever been in. I don't think the Army will turn me down."

Terry, Lazor Back With Sox

Joe Cronin was probably the happiest man in the Hub when the tranquility of the exclusive Sox training camp (Lupien and Tabor) was rudely interrupted by the arrival of Yank Terry and Johnny Lazor. This pair of regulars, 4-F and 2-A, not only appeared on the lovely winter scene but were eager to don the baseball spangles and knuckle down to training for a few days before moving on to Baltimore where Cronin is in hopes of being able to field a nine-man club ready for an immediate tough grind.

Including the four regulars now counted present at Tufts Gym the gold plated Sox group here now numbers seven. The hop-off for the Oriole city is now listed for Saturday.

Lazor, 2-A, who cavorted in the outfield 83 games last year, and boasted a batting mark of .326, reported in fine condition after a winter in a defense plant in Seattle until three weeks ago.

Terry, 4-F, and a hurler with a 7-9 record in 1943, came on from Bedford, Ind. He tips the scales at 200, about 15 pounds overweight but feeling enthusiastic about settling down to the training grind which he believes will soon bring him down to his best playing form.

The usual long batting practice and fielding drill were in order during which Cronin tried out an impromptu infield comprising Lupien at first, Ty LaForest at second, Jack Barry at short and Jim Tabor at third. George Woods and Joe Wood, Jr., took the mound during the practice session.

Repair Wimbledon Court After Bombing

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—Wimbledon's center court was pitted by debris thrown by a bomb which recently struck the All-England Tennis Club, but officials said today the court would be ready for use by summer.

Closed in 1939 Wimbledon reopened for play last year after having been damaged by bombs in 1940.

Chicago Cop to Hurl for Cubs

CHICAGO, March 23 (AP)—It looks like John Law will be in the Chicago Cubs lineup this season.

Johnny Miklos, a Chicago policeman who has also done some baseball pitching, went to the Cubs' French Lick, Ind., training camp for a little exercise. Now it appears that he will wind up as a member of the team's pitching staff.

Miklos, a southpaw, is willing to pitch for the Cubs on a part-time basis, retaining his job as a patrolman.

Friendship for Coleman Brings Pair Back to B's

By BILL GRIMES

WALLINGFORD, Ct., March 23—A year ago, when the three eye league voted to suspend operations for the duration, Chet Clemens and Mike Sandlock, who are here at Choate School with the Braves, made applications to be placed on the voluntary retired list and enrolled as employees at the Republic Aircraft Co., manufacturers of the famous "Thunderbolts" at Evansville, Ind.

As a kid out of school, Mike Sandlock came into the Braves organization seven years ago at Erie, Pa. Two years later, Chet Clemens came out of the Florida State League and reported to Bob Coleman at Evansville. In 1941, Sandlock and Clemens were teammates at Evansville. A year ago, they played for the Republic Aircraft Co. team and they were all set to remain out of organized baseball until after the war.

But when Bob Coleman was appointed manager of the Braves, Clemens and Sandlock jumped at the opportunity to repay their old boss for the assistance he had rendered them on their way up the baseball ladder.

"Hank" Lehmann, who has been knocking around class A, B and C leagues since 1928, is getting a tryout. He was a consistent 300 hitter in the "sticks" and with only four outfielders in camp, if he can show anything has a chance to stay around until conditions improve.

Tommy Holmes is back in Brooklyn... He left here last night for Flatbush to have a session with his draft board, which has him listed I-A... Tommy, naturally, wants to know where he stands and will submit to his physical examination... For years, Holmes has had a serious sinus condition and may be rejected... But, if he's accepted, the Braves will be short of outfielders, for that department will be reduced to "Chuck" Workman, Chet Clemens and "Butch" Nieman, who goes up for his physical one month from today.

Bill Marshall, the Lowell southpaw, has been placed in 4-F, because of a perforated eardrum... Marshall cannot miss at Hartford and he may do even better by staying with the "Colemen"... Ralph May, Jr., son of the Braves' trainer, who was the bat boy at the Wingman for about three years until he went into the service, is with the Army in New Caledonia... Carl Lindquist, the rangy right-hand pitcher, went to Meriden today to have an X-ray taken of his injured ankle.

Manager Bob Coleman looked over Mickie DeLuca, from the Bronx, N. Y., a left-hand hurler, who is in a defense plant at New Britain... Mickie beat the Phillies, 1-0, last season while pitching for the Contelco Club... Until Carrington Clark, the school-boy catcher from Chester, Pa., nicked him in the kidney with a one hopper back through the box, Mickie was doing all right pitching batting practice... He has all the appearances of a fine hitter.

The pitcher shortage is still acute... So, the Braves had only one batting drill, during which Al Javery, Ben Cardoni, Jim Tobin, Bill Marshall, Mickie DeLuca, Kirby Farrell, Mike Sandlock and "Buck" Etchison were on the mound.

Boudreau was quick to credit the uprisings to the ball rather than to any outcropping of latent power in Grant and Seery, who never have been vicious at the plate.

"If the cover was any tighter it would be a golf ball," Boudreau said as he fondled it. "It actually has a ping when it's hit."

Joe Hoiving, the major leagues' only grandpappy, who incidentally, is planning to remarry soon, thinks the lively pellet is especially adapted to his sinker.

Mel Harder, anxious to start the season, as he looks forward to reaching the select 200-game win-

2-Mile Record Aim of Dodds

CLEVELAND, March 22 (AP)—Gil Dodds, the Boston pastor, takes a crack at breaking the two-mile speed record Friday night when the Knights of Columbus hold their annual track and field meet at Cleveland Arena.

The miler king forsakes that distance for the first time this season to make an assault on the two-mile indoor record set on the same track by Greg Rice. Rice set a world mark of 8:51 in the Cleveland meet a year ago.

Dodds already has traveled a mile and a half in 6:45 and he consistently does the half-mile in 2:05. A combination of these two time marks would send him across the finish line in 8:50, a full second ahead of Rice's record.

Challenging Dodds will be Ensign Elmer Hunter, former Notre Dame star; Jim Rafferty, New York, C.; Jimmy Wisner, Baltimore; and Jerry Thompson of Great Lakes.

Buys Horse During Race

SAH MATEO, Cal., March 23 (AP)—Alamo Belle took so much time running the second race at Bay Meadows that she acquired a new owner twist the start and the finish.

Owner J. R. Gregory watched the filly yield the lead and heard Frank Barley, a rival stable owner, ask if she was for sale.

"Right now, I'll take $750," said Gregory.

Barley waited in silence until the eighth pole. "$650," Gregory offered.

At the 16th pole, Gregory had considered further. "$500," he said finally.

"Sold," answered Barley. Alamo Belle finished seventh.

New Rocket Ball New Life for Weak Hitters

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 23 (AP)—Conversation in the Cleveland Indians' spring training quarters today turned from 1-A and 4-F draft classifications to the 1944 "rocket ball."

The new vitamin-injected baseball was tested yesterday as the team went outdoors for the first time for a six-inning intra-squad game between the "Flame Throwers" and the "Secret Weapons."

No one was giving much thought about the new sphere until 155-pound Jimmy Grant ups and slams a 400-foot home run. Then he ups and hits a long two-bagger. Then Pat Seery, a 222 batter in 26 games with the Tribe last year, got the urge and smacked a homer.

The immediate reaction was that all was not normal. Manager Lou ning circle—he needs only three uprisings to do it—figures the ball will be something of a lifesaver to the game.

"I don't think it will make any difference to the pitchers," he theorized. "But I think the game need something like this ball this season to make hitters out of guys who normally aren't. After all, the fans go to a game to see the hit, smacked around. And with most of the power-hitters gone, this new ball, if it is as lively as they say, has come at an opportune time and will take up the slack."

Hank Favored Over Zanelli

As flashy in his gym workout as when he dynamited his way to three world's championships, Hammerin' Henry Armstrong fully installed himself as the favorite to continue his winning ways when he meets Ralph "The Ripper" Zanelli, Providence, in the 10-round feature of the Goodwin A. C. tomorrow night at the Boston Garden.

Ring critics had not the least difficulty in spotting the brilliance, punch and foot-work that mark a champion in action as Armstrong displayed at Kelley and Hayes gymnasium.

It was evident that Armstrong's amazing comeback streak of seven straight victories has been anything but synthetic. Monday of this week he won a unanimous decision over Frankie Wills in Washington. Although a favorite with Capital fans, Wills had little chance against Armstrong, the triple champion admittedly coasting in the late rounds to save himself for Zanelli whom he considers the toughest of his comeback foes.
